Cal. National in L. A. Merger

S. A. MEN TO KEEP CONTROL

Local Bank's Affiliation With Big City Group Effective February 17

DIRECTORATE NAMES J. K. HERMON AS HEAD

Financial House Combines With Pacific Southwest Enterprise

Financial circles today were interested in the announcement that stockholders of the California National bank, of this city, yesterday voted to affiliate with the First National bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank and First Securities company of Los Angeles.

According to J. K. Hermon, who, at the annual meeting yesterday, was elected president of the California National, the merger will become effective February 17. He stated that the bank would not lose its identity, that it would continue as a local bank, and that the same directors and officers will continue to manage the financial institution.

The officers elected by the directors at a meeting, following their election, were as follows:

Here Are Officers
J. K. Hermon, president; E. E. Vincent, vice-president; A. G. Finley, vice-president; E. L. Crawford, cashier; H. M. Sammis and R. M. Doyle, assistant cashiers; A. D. McGarragh, auditor.

The old board of directors was re-elected. It consists of E. E. Vincent, A. E. Bennett, A. G. Finley, E. L. Crawford, J. K. Hermon, A. J. McFadden, O. A. Haley, M. Nissen.

Hermon stated that he is here to establish a permanent home, and that he will in a few days buy a lot and begin the erection of a new residence.

Become Co-Partners
"The affiliation is one by which the stockholders of the California National will become co-partners with the Pacific Southwest group," said Hermon. "The merger will not result in the local bank losing its identity. An interesting and important feature in the merger lies in the fact that under the merger agreement the local bank retains its individuality and secures, in addition, the support of the resources of the Pacific Southwest group."

The call by the controller of currency on December 29, 1922, disclosed that the group has resources totalling $218,000,000, exclusive of five units that have been affiliated with the Los Angeles group since the first of January. The affiliations were the Ocean Park bank, with offices also at Santa Monica and Venice, San Fernando National bank at San Fernando and the Bank of Whittier. Resources of the California National are $1,658,685.

To Exchange Stock
"The transaction does not entail outright purchase of the stock of the California National bank. Stock in this bank is exchanged for stock in the Pacific Southwest, by which local persons become co-partners in the entire business of the Pacific Southwest financial institution. The merger agreement also provides that the California National shall continue under control of local persons."

"The benefit of the merger will be felt by Santa Ana in the added capital placed at its disposal and the increased banking service that will be available here, through departments operated by the Los Angeles concern."

FRESNO GETS CONVENTION
SANTA ANA, Jan. 10.—The California Association of Highway Patrolmen today voted to hold its 1924 session in Fresno, Calif. The association has been in convention here two days, discussing highway patrol methods.

Fix Willamette Flood Loss at $4,000,000 As Damage Toll Taken

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 10.—The flood in the Willamette river here was reported to be slightly lower than yesterday when at least one of Portland's important inter-city bridges was seriously threatened.

Reports of damage in the upper Willamette valley continued to pour into railroad and engineering offices here. The Southern Pacific main line to the south is still unfit for use, but through trains are operating over electric lines, on the west side of the Willamette.

The total damage to all kinds of property has not yet been carefully estimated, but it was believed the figure would exceed $4,000,000. Hundreds of people are homeless in small towns, farming communities and houseboat colonies along the Willamette.

JAPANESE TO SEND ENVOY TO VATICAN

Government Defies Buddhist Forces in Giving Recognition to Catholic Church.

TOKIO, Jan. 10.—Japan has decided to appoint a diplomatic envoy to the Vatican, it was declared today on the highest authority.

This authority stated that it had been finally decided to name "an able envoy" and that this action would be taken "despite protests of the Buddhists."

Buddhist parties, it was learned, have launched a vigorous nation-wide campaign against the government's proposal.

NEW HEADS FOR AM. NATIONAL BANK LOOM

Changes in the personnel of the active officials of the American National bank here were expected to be made at 4 p. m. today when the new board of directors elected at yesterday's annual meeting of stockholders met to organize.

The directors chosen were those represented on the ticket prepared and submitted by what was known as the E. H. Richards faction in the contest that developed at the annual meeting.

The following compose the board: E. H. Richards, M. S. Cloyes, Fleetwood Bell, Charles L. Cotant, Sterling Price, E. V. Covington, Charles E. Walker, John M. Cloyes and John W. Norton.

The success of this ticket indicated that the board would elect a successor to Mayor John G. Mitchell as president of the bank, although this by no means was a settled fact prior to the meeting of the board, it was declared.

Indicating the interest that was manifest in the annual meeting, it was disclosed that 1812 of the 2000 shares of the bank were represented in person and by proxy.

A stockholder said that the bank had made big progress in the two years of its existence and he predicted that it would increase in power and influence.

GIRL ACCUSES TWO IN LA. KIDNAPING

COURTHOUSE, BASTROP, La., Jan. 10.—The story of a young girl, banished from the community by masked men, was related on the witness stand here today in Louisiana's investigation of terrorist activities.

Miss Addie May Hamilton, 17 years old, testified her mother, "down on her knees" pleaded with the hooded men not to carry her away.

"The Ku Klux Klan took me out of the house last year and sent me to Little Rock," Addie May began. "They told mama they would take and feather her if she didn't let them take me."

SERVICE BIG SKIDS UNDER M. & M. AIM FOR YEAR FRIENDS OF STEPHENS

148 Folk at Annual Meeting of S. A. Body Hear Inspiring Message

The Santa Ana Merchants and Manufacturers' association today entered upon another year of service to the community, with its members confident of increasing the scope of its activities and determined to make the coming year even more successful than the last in the point of increased numbers and other expansions, following the organization's annual meeting held at St. Ann's Inn here last night, when 148 men and women were present.

At no other annual meeting in the history of the organization were there as many present as last night or was the spirit of good fellowship more manifest or appreciation of the organization more pronounced, it was stated.

The annual report of P. S. Lucas and the election of officers were the big features of the session. In his report Lucas recapitulated the work of the association during the past year and made recommendations upon which, it is expected, the new board of directors later will act. Many comments were heard on the completeness of the report and the efficient manner in which the secretary had conducted the affairs of the organization.

Directors were elected as recommended by a nominating committee composed of Charles C. Chapman, Walter N. Vandermast and Edwin McFadden, as follows: Fred Newcomb, Albert Hill, Hugh Gerrard, George Platt, F. Y. Jayne and A. H. Paterson.

The board will meet and organize tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the association office in the city hall.

The diners entered the banquet room of the Inn to strains from Chapman's orchestra. As each seated himself he found confronting him a beautiful red rose to which was attached a card breathing the spirit of co-operation, the big word in the association. The souvenir card bore the inscription, "Co-operation of sunshine, water and work produced this beautiful rose—co-operation always produces results."

Following the serving of the course, Charles L. Davis, as president, called the meeting to order and opened by having the secretary call the roll. The greater majority of the 165 firms holding membership were represented.

H. J. Forgy, attorney for the association, briefly referred to the condition that brought about the organization some seventeen or eighteen years ago. He declared that at that time merchants of the city were being harassed by solicitors for advertising schemes varying in character and that the business men were forced to advertise.

MAN, 67, SUCCEUMS TO CRASH INJURIES

John H. Nolan, 67, retired railroad conductor residing at 1112 Orange avenue, died at the Community hospital here today as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident last Saturday.

Nolan, who came to Santa Ana two months ago from his home in Belle Plaine, Iowa, sustained cuts and bruises about the head and face when an automobile driven by his nephew, O. H. Umberham, of the Southern California Edison company, collided with a car piloted by J. D. Wineburner.

The Umberham car was overturned, according to the police report, but Nolan was the only occupant who sustained serious injuries. At the hospital here it was said that Nolan's condition was aggravated by acute kidney disorders. Relatives declared he had been in poor health for several years.

Nolan is survived by his widow, Mrs. Celia Nolan; a daughter, Mrs. G. McDonough; two nephews, William and O. H. Umberham, and a niece, Mrs. Bertha McKague, all of Santa Ana. Nolan for many years was a conductor on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Arrangements for an inquest have not been completed.

Richardson Withdraws Last Appointment of Retiring Executive

(By United Press Leased Wire) SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—Governor Friend W. Richardson today withdrew the last minute appointments made by Governor Stephens before his retirement, including that of insurance commissioner, state prison director and members of the board of charities and corrections.

As a result of the executive's action, E. C. Cooper, San Francisco, is ousted from the $10,000 yearly office of state insurance commissioner, to which he was named last week by Stephens.

Charles Neumiller, Stockton, will not step into office as state prison director and the members of the board of charities and corrections selected by Stephens will not take over the duties of that commission.

They include: Rev. Charles A. Ramm, San Francisco; Hattie H. Sloss, San Francisco; Jessica B. Plesiot, Berkeley; B. H. Pendleton, Oakland.

New Appointments Near.
Governor Richardson is expected to name his own appointees to the positions within the next few days. They will come before the legislature for ratification.

With the struggle and excitement which accompanied the change of executive control of the state now behind them, legislators of the senate and assembly were scheduled today to attempt to complete the organization of the two houses.

The details yet remaining are important ones. They include the appointment of the committees—the different groups of lawmakers into whose charge and keeping are entrusted the infant measures parented and cherished by the legislators who bring them forth.

Scan Committee Lists.
Assemblymen are equipped with "committee recommendations" sheets and well are they studying the merits and demerits of their co-workers before advancing their suggestions. In fact, so well is it being done that Speaker Merriam announced he may not make known the assembly committees before Saturday.

In the senate there are signs of deliberation as well with the ever looming prospect that majority senators will exercise their right in the matter and take away the naming of committees from President Young and select their own committees.

Particularly is this a possibility since the lieutenant governor delivered his inaugural address yesterday—a speech threaded with carefully veiled hints of opposition to the administration should Governor Richardson's plans include any attempt to "tear down what we have built up" in carrying out his economy program.

If this statement of the senate president includes opposition to curtailment of the state's expenses, an out and out clash is expected to develop in the upper house soon. The governor will possibly have his first test of power in the senate in the selection of committees.

Richardson Victory.
He had already had it in the assembly in the election of speaker. It was a test in which the administration won out, but with "progressives" declaring that they will be able to block any legislation they desire.

Following the selection and announcement of committees, legislators' pockets are bulging with bills. They cannot be presented until the different committees are named to receive them and California's lawmakers are anxious to get their pet measures recognized—bills varying in interest and text from a proposal for a new $3,000,000 state house to one permitting our pugilistically talented to batter each other six rounds an evening in the prize ring instead of four.

Former Alley Cat Wins First Prize In Big N. Y. Exhibition

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Snoozer Boy is just a common old cat from the can-filled alleys on the eastside, but Snoozer Boy today is about the best cat in New York.

With sore eyes, fleas, a mangy back and ribs sticking out like a washboard, Snoozer was picked up a year ago by "Little Joe" and Antoinette, "Big Joe" Frascotti's kids.

One year of careful ministrations and good feeding worked wonders with Snoozer and last night he won a medal at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Snoozer was declared by the judges at the Atlantic Cat club show to be the best cat exhibited in the non-championship class, and they gave him first prize.

ARBUCKLE AT WORK ON NEW COMEDY FILM

Rotund Film Star, Long Banned From Screen, Begins Work In Los Angeles Studio.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle went to work at the Buster Keaton studio today for the first time since September, 1921, when he was arrested for the death of Virginia Rappe.

He will begin production on a two-reel slapstick comedy, to be produced by the Screen Comedy company, a newly organized firm in which Gavin McNab, San Francisco attorney who defended Arbuckle, is interested.

The scenario was written by Joseph A. Mitchell. It is broad slapstick comedy, and will feature Fatty in his well known small brown derby and oversized pants. No plans have been made for releasing the film.

MEMORIES STIR OVER SALE OF SCHOOL BELL

"With deep affection I often think of those Shandon bells." Today there is something of affection and recollection centered around a rusty old school bell resting on the ground at the corner of Church and Sycamore streets.

And sadness, too—For the old bell is up for sale.

No more will it call children of Santa Ana to classrooms. Never again in Santa Ana will its musical tones hasten the footsteps of a tardy child.

Offered For $25
It was taken from the bell tower of the old Washington school by workmen who tore the old structure down to make room for the new Y. M. C. A. building soon to be built. It is offered for sale to anyone who will take it, and the price is $25. The price is immaterial. The fact that it is for sale is what arouses a note of deep regret among the hundreds whose school day recollections bear the magic tones of this old bell.

Nobody seems to know how old the bell is, for no date appears upon it. The makers' name is there, "Rumsey and company, Seneca Falls, N. Y." And there is a figure 7, which, possibly denotes the size.

Looking at the old bell this morning, J. L. Ziellian, who was principal of the Tustin school for many years, said that his remembrance is that this was the first school bell in Santa Ana. He believed it was in the old building that formerly stood on Church street between Sycamore and Main, which building, now in apartments, stands on Sycamore about 100 yards north of Church street.

Recalls Old Tales
"It is a bell of fine tone," said Ziellian, tapping it reminiscently. "There is many a man and woman in Santa Ana in age up to 45 who has scampered to school and into line at the call of this old bell."

The old Washington school building, long known as the Central school, was built in 1887, and the bell was placed in the tower at that time.

Not a few tales of early day escapades will be aroused by the passing of the old bell from its pioneer service. Some will tell of the day the clapper was wrapped in rags, others of tying knots in the rope so that the bell wouldn't ring.

FRENCH ADVANCE ON RUHR STIRS HUGHES TO DRASTIC ACTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—American troops today were ordered withdrawn from Germany.

Secretary of State Hughes, after a lengthy conference with President Harding issued orders for the prompt return to this country of the American army of occupation on the Rhine.

This force, which has been patrolling the Coblenz bridgehead since the armistice now numbers one thousand officers and men.

Follows Senate Resolution
The action of the President and Hughes follows the passage by the senate of Senator Reed's resolution expressing the view of the upper house that the Rhine forces should be withdrawn.

Secretary of War Weeks revealed that the United States, in protesting the seizure of the Ruhr, had informed France that the American forces would be withdrawn if this invasion was started.

The troops are under command of Major General Henry T. Allen.

Immediately upon his return to the state department, Hughes summoned the correspondents who had just had their regular conference with Under-Secretary Phillips and announced the decision for the withdrawal.

Plan Speedy Return.
The withdrawal of the American forces follows immediately on the heels of information reaching this government that France had definitely and finally decided to occupy the Ruhr.

It is understood that orders will go out during the day for army transports to proceed at once to a German port and that embarkation of the American Rhine forces will start within a week.

As soon as the conference between President Harding and Hughes was over, the president asked Secretary of War Weeks to come to the White House to arrange details for the evacuation.

The transport, San Mihel, now at New York is in sailing condition and probably will leave this afternoon to transport the troops back to this country. Secretary Weeks said as he left the White House.

Ship Ready to Sail.
It will sail for Antwerp. Weeks said the troops would be back in this country in about two or three weeks. A small force, possibly fifty officers and men will be left at Coblenz to dispose of the property which belonged to the American forces of occupation.

This property which Weeks said is considerable cannot be transported and will be sold there.

The American action followed the refusal of France to halt its Ruhr invasion and submit the reparations question to an international commission of business experts, as suggested by the United States. A few days ago the United States again made known to France its regard for the march into the Ruhr with distinct disfavor.

Has Cost $300,000,000.
The cost of maintaining the army of occupation on the Rhine since the armistice is now in excess of $300,000,000. This is to be paid by Germany, but so far only comparatively small amounts have been received.

The force originally was about 15,000 men but has been reduced from time to time at the instance of Germany. Plans were under way to cut off further appropriations for the troops if the administration had not issued orders for their withdrawal.

"The step taken by Secretary Hughes is very gratifying," declares Senator Reed of Missouri, author of the resolution passed by the senate last Saturday, urging withdrawal.

"That step is the first to take us out of Europe. Now, if we will go after the unofficial American representatives on the various European commissions, I believe the United States will be safe from any entanglement in the present critical European situation."

Men Anxious to Stay.
The army transport bringing the troops back will be routed to touch first at Savannah, Ga., then to Charleston and New York, leaving quotas of troops at Fort Scriven, Ga., and Fort Moultrie, S. C., and other centers in the surrounding areas.

About one-half of the Rhine forces are estimated to be World War veterans. Some of these re-enlisted after their discharge following the armistice.

Receiving huge bundles of marks a sterling pay, many of these men are said to be reluctant to leave Germany.

Germany recently strongly urged the United States to continue its force on the Rhine because of its moral influence.

LOUISIANA TOT 'GLAD TO BE WITH MAMA'

"I'd travel that far any day to be with mamma."

Little Eunice Wills, 5-year-old daughter of E. L. Wills, who will go to trial before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams tomorrow on charges of embezzlement, had arrived from Homer, La.

Last night, just as the worried mother had given up hope, and was preparing to retire at her room at 501 West Fourth street, a faint knock was heard at the door.

The door was opened, and mother arms clutched the tiny miss, for whose safety a hundred persons in Santa Ana had feared.

Tot Thanks S. A. Folk.
When Wills was arrested in Homer, La., on embezzlement charges, preferred by the Santa Ana Soda Works, and was extradited by Orange county authorities, he had only money enough to bring his wife with him. The little girl was left with a family there.

Several weeks ago, she was turned out by them. Prisoners at the jail, hearing of this, started a fund, which, augmented by other contributions here, enabled the child to come to Santa Ana.

"Mother told me all about the nice folk who gave me the money to come here," the lass lisped in shy, winning way. "You tell them 'thank you' for me, will you please?"

This was her simple expression of gratitude.

Today Mrs. Wills purchased a dress and hat with that portion of the $66.50 fund that was not needed for the railroad fare.

"I had to sell my dog 'Teddy' to get shoes to wear on the trip," little Eunice explained. "I didn't want to do it; I wanted to bring him with me, he was so cute."

"I'd sell hundreds of dogs to see my mother, though," she added brightly.

Delay in the child's arrival in Santa Ana was due to the miscarriage of the telegram carrying the funds, it was learned. The girl was ready to leave the Sunday after the subscription was completed, but it was not until last Saturday at 6 p. m. that she finally left Homer, La., the railroad terminal nearest Homer.

During the entire trip Eunice was in charge of the conductors. Her cheery manner bought for her a warm place in the regard of officials and passengers on the train, to whom she was known as "Santy Anne."

LINK SHOT MAN TO 'MUSTACHE PLOT' HERE

"Fred Mason," at the county hospital as a result of a bullet wound in his leg, sustained when Special Officer Fred Parker shot him as he resisted arrest as an asserted short change operator, faced a dreary future today.

Identified by Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, head of the county bureau of identification, as Jacob P. Schwartz, alias James Burns, Jack Burns, and Fred Mason, and, according to Zabel, as the man who passed worthless checks on at least three stores here, the wounded man will also be questioned on suspicion of his connection with the darins "mustache" swindle, by which a mysterious stranger attempted to cash a stolen warrant for $5,322 at the office of the county treasurer here last Saturday.

To Face Denial

As soon as his condition is such as to warrant his being moved, Schwartz will be brought to the jail, dressed in a gray overcoat, a can, pulled over his eyes, and a false mustache. Mrs. Marjory Jonlin, deputy county treasurer, will then attempt to identify him as the man who appeared before her last Saturday in an attempt to cash the warrant, drawn to E. I. Crooke, and believed to have been stolen.

The fact that "Mason" was picked up only four hours after the mysterious "Mr. Metcalfe" had vanished from the courthouse, led the authorities to suspect him of being that person. Justice J. B. Cox, who obtained a good view of "Metcalfe," will also be relied upon for the identification, if it can be made.

As Schwartz, the man had a record of crime which substantiates the belief of officers here that he is a desperate criminal. In Los Angeles, July 31, 1921, he was arrested on robbery charges. In December, 1921, he was arrested in Des Moines, Ia., on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, and is wanted there on a bench warrant pertaining to the same matter.

Jailed at Oakland

He was arrested in Oakland, April 8, 1922, on petit larceny charges. This information was obtained when Zabel forwarded finger prints to the bureau of identification at San Diego.

Hospital officials declared that he would probably be well enough for removal tomorrow. The charges of short change activity will probably be dropped, in favor of a warrant, secured by Ivis Stein, who declared that he was victimized by a worthless check for $34, which Mason gave him for a camera.

chological, in dealing with the subconscious, the usual measurements and tests of science cannot be applied to it.

Whether it is true that the repetition of the Coue formula will have the desired effect, it does not affect the known efficiency of will and character and intelligence as success factors. Dr. Coue will establish an empirical basis for his philosophy if he can show that it works. Rational science may later explain why it works—if it does. In the meantime, the strong and intelligent will succeed and the weak and stupid will fail.

Can we add cubits to our stature by taking thought? It is worth finding out. Let us examine everything—with one reservation. Let us, so far as humanly possible, keep to the scientific method.

FRANK A. LOGAN CALLED BY DEATH

Arrangements were today being completed for the funeral services of Frank A. Logan, 59, prominent rancher of Tustin, who died yesterday at his home in that community.

Services will be conducted at the Smith and Tutill chapel by the Rev. W. S. MacDougall, pastor of Tustin Presbyterian church, tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Mr. Logan was a native of Iowa, but came to this locality with his parents when he was a boy of fourteen and has taken an active part in the consistent development of the county.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Chase Logan; two daughters, Mrs. Florence M. Marshall of Irvine and Mrs. Mabel Logan Russell of Alhambra; and one son, Charles F. Logan, of Tustin.

FORMER DEPUTY IS NAMED NIGHT GUARD

F. J. Yates, former criminal deputy under Sheriff C. E. Jackson, was today night guard at the county jail, following his appointment yesterday by the board of supervisors.

He will assist Jailer Orin Moncrief in the management of the jail during the night. Moncrief will be sleeping quarters upstairs in the jail building, while Yates will be on duty at the door, to look prisoners and attend to all calls that come from the sheriff's office.

Yates was formerly a guard in charge of the chain gang, which worked at the county park. Later, upon the resignation of Deputy Sheriff Roy Ballard, he was made chief deputy under Jackson. He is a former member of the state constabulary of Colorado.

ments are not attempting to finance two years operation during this session. There was a time when hotels hid their rate cards or had new ones printed especially for the legislative period. Some concerted action and a little pressure seems to have ended this practice. All hotels are filled, however, and proprietors are rightfully cheerful.

Senator R. E. Swing, San Bernardino and Inyo counties, declares that he hasn't a bill to introduce, no sir, not a one—at least, that is to say none which he can talk about now.

Life holds a wealth of irony. Governor Richardson had just completed his inaugural message yesterday in which he lambasted the "political machine" of retiring Governor Stephens, sitting behind him, when Gertrude Warren Barry arose to sing. Her selection was "Because I Love You, Dear."

That he will confine his efforts to advancing legislation for good roads and schools is the announcement of Senator Frank J. Powers of the second senatorial district, one of the new members of the upper house.

A large wreath covers one seat in the senate. Death claimed Senator E. S. Rigdon of San Luis Obispo county in December, and the seat will be vacant for the first thirty days of the session. A special election will be held in January. It is understood that John Hughes is the only candidate for the office.

Four women are sitting in the new assembly. The Misses Esto Broughton of Modesto, and Anna Saylor of Berkeley were re-elected. The other two, Miss Eleanor Miller of Pasadena, and Miss Bradford Woodbridge of Roseville, are new members. All plan to introduce bills.

So far the senate has withstood the feminine force in politics, at least insofar as its personnel is concerned. But the presence of women, secretaries and wives of members, sitting beside their senator husbands during these first few days of organization, gives the upper house a tinge of the new era in legislation as well.

HUGHES CALLS U. S. RHINE ARMY HOME

the occupied region were retarded this afternoon.

Some troop trains were halted at Coblenz; others were shunted to sidings at towns along the left bank of the Rhine instead of proceeding to the area for which they were originally destined.

Whether the above dispatch indicated a halt or change in the French plans for invasion of the Ruhr or merely that the troops were held up awaiting the "zero hour" tentatively fixed for day-break tomorrow, is not clear.

SEIZURE OF MINES FIRST AIM OF FRENCH TROOPS

PARIS, Jan. 10.—France's formal notification to Germany states that troops are being sent to the Ruhr valley only to protect engineers who will go to the coal mines, has been prepared, it was officially announced today. The notice was to be sent this afternoon.

The French forces will remain encamped around Essen and will not intervene unless the engineers are menaced.

Belgium, too, will notify Germany to this effect.

Dawn tomorrow will see French troops advance on Essen in an encircling movement from north and south, according to plans of the French high command, it was learned today.

About 35,000 troops, including eight regiments of infantry, six of cavalry with artillery, the modern tank appliances and armored cars, will take part in the "peaceful capture" of the wealthy Ruhr city.

Allied engineers, including Belgian and Italian, will accompany the advance guard, it is understood, and will take up positions immediately at the coal mines.

It was learned that the French engineers, upon arrival at Essen, will commence immediately to partition Germany's coal production from this region. The Germans will be permitted the amount needed internally and the surplus will be divided between France and the allies, in accordance with the Versailles treaty.

Other experts will collect the coal tax now being taken by the German government. This is twenty per cent on coal production at the mines.

Book Review

Members of the Book Review club, which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nealey last night, heard a most delightful review of Willa Cather's new novel, "One of Ours," given by Mrs. Clarence Gustlin.

Mrs. Gustlin presented Miss Cather as our greatest woman novelist, and "One of Ours" as representative of her best and most mature work. The novel was the product of three years of work and shows a rare beauty of style.

There is no vagueness in her pictures and many of the descriptions are extremely beautiful.

The story of the novel was given by a series of skillfully chosen quotations, which gave the spirit of the book as well as the unfolding of the plot. The distinctive feature of the book is Miss Cather's attitude toward the war, although it was given to the public four years after the close of the war.

In the tale, Miss Cather pictures the idealism and enthusiasm of the early months rather than the reaction which followed. Her hero sees not the physical horrors, although the author does not minimize these, but he sees only the glory of the cause and an outlet for the idealism which up to the war period had been sternly suppressed. The war satisfies his long questioning of life.

under threat of boycott.

He said that the merchants knew that they received no return from the money they spent and finally a small group of them created the association to protect themselves.

Rules were established under which members might govern themselves as to meeting demands made upon them by promoters of fake and other advertising schemes which did not give value received.

He asserted that members of the association save annually enough to pay their dues forty times over.

Sam Hurwitz, treasurer, in his report, disclosed that the organization opens the new year with a cash balance of $668.96.

Special entertainment features included numbers by the orchestra, vocal selections by Leon Eccles, readings by Miss Minnie May Lewis, teacher of English and drama at the high school, and a piano solo by Miss Margaret Wickes, director of music at the high school. All the numbers were exceptionally well rendered.

Following the custom of the annual meeting, it was intended to return each member present the $1.50 paid for the dinner ticket, but on motion, it was voted to retain the money and place it in the treasury of the association.

BIG MEMBERSHIP GAIN
Beginning the year 1922 with a membership of 87 and closing with a net total of 164, the membership of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association now is the strongest in the history of the organization, according to statements contained in the annual report of P. S. Lucas, secretary, and presented at the annual banquet of the association at St. Ann's Inn, here last night.

The secretary pointed out that he had added eighty-four new members during the year, and that seventeen had relinquished membership in that period.

The secretary said that thirty-one fines were imposed in 1922 for violations of the advertising rules and that thus there was returned to the association $57.50. Four withdrew from the organization during the year because of the imposition of fines, the report disclosed.

Regarding the observance of Armistice day by closing of business houses, the secretary sent questionnaires to thirty secretaries of other state associations, from whom, up to the time of closing his report, he received only seven replies. Eight were favorable to closing and the same number was opposed, while the odd one was undecided.

As partially indicating the volume of business in the office of the secretary, he recited that although he does not have the assistance of a stenographer he had handled correspondence amounting to 2305 pages.

"The secretary's office has become a veritable clearinghouse for all sorts of conditions and things, from pleasant, kindly counsel to fake advertising, from a dour solicitation to a shrewd beggar or from a simple complaint to a meddling in politics," said the report.

Lucas pointed out that he had saved the members $13,370 during the year by refusing endorsement to various agents, solicitors, committees, fakers, organizations and advertisers, and, he said, "this cannot include all, because in some instances the secretary does not go far enough to ascertain the total amount the solicitors desire to take out of the pockets of the merchants, nor does it account for three months of the year when no record was kept."

Indicating that there has been no particular complaint against merchants or by merchants against competitors charging unfair business methods, the secretary reported that only two cases of grievances were reported to him during the year.

The report disclosed that only fifteen bad checks were paid in full by members. There was one instance in which a merchant saved himself $100 by making use of information available at the secretary's office.

Striking out boldly on the present condition of the association, the secretary said that "the day of the M. and M. as a social club, a petty organization, a pompous, resolute body, a collection of standing committees (that do nothing but stand) or a body living on a paltry contribution, with a part-time secretary, has passed—never to return."

After reciting causes that impelled him to make this statement, the secretary continued:

"To keep up with this rapidly growing community, your association must be a real power. It must be the standard bearer of progress and constructive work, with a vision to the future and with a leadership that has the confidence and support of its membership."

"Believe me, fellow members, your secretary, the man who does the real work of the association, equipped with all that men and experience may have taught him, supported by splendid, loyal officers and directors, with a program planned with the best intentions for the greatest good, is powerless—powerless as the captain of a ship without a crew—unless he has created in you, the members, a true spirit of confidence in and appreciation of, and co-operation with, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association."

Recommendations by the secretary included a large committee be appointed, representative of a majority of lines of business within the membership, to make investigations and report to the board of directors all matters that affect the membership, to meet semi-monthly and conduct an open forum for discussion of business problems; that a merchants' private patrol be established, in view of the asserted fact that whereas the police force is efficient, it is not composed of a sufficient number of men to give the protection that the investments of other state associations justify; that a better business bureau be instituted to protect the public against unscrupulous merchants; that there be an employment bureau through which members may procure help when needed; that there be a manufacturers' bureau to give special attention to the working out of problems of those engaged in manufacturing; that there be a general meeting of the membership every three months and that a community chest be established.

By the latter, the secretary pointed out, overlapping of charity work by various organizations could be eliminated.

Concluding, the report said: "So long as any member thinks only of himself, intent only upon the realization of mere ambition, just so long will the M. and M. lack 100 per cent concentrated effort, collective thinking and unselfish teamwork."

"Broad and useful as the services of the association have been during the past year, it is certain that we are now facing wider opportunities of even greater value. Experience has demonstrated the need, not only of cooperation but of coordination of effort as exercised through the medium of effective merchants and manufacturers. More fully to grasp these coming opportunities and to secure these benefits, there should be a broader membership, with a corresponding increase in treasury funds and a dominating, animating spirit of service."

The regular meeting of the Tustin P-T. A. has been announced for tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the kindergarten room. The program will be given by several different groups and will be followed by discussions and important business matters.

His repertoire included work of the older masters as well as that of the modernists and in every case his interpretation was declared to be eminently sympathetic as well as brilliant.

CHARTER BOARD ELECTED HERE AS 136 VOTE

Santa Ana today had a board of freeholders.

The members were chosen at an election held yesterday.

It will be their duty to frame a charter for the government of the city. This charter will later be submitted to the voters of the city.

One hundred and thirty-six of the 9042 registered voters of the city expressed themselves by casting ballots.

Sixty of that number comprised the election boards of the ten special precincts, leaving ninety-six men and women who availed themselves of the opportunity to take the time and trouble to go to the polls to cast ballots.

At the Spurgeon school polls, only seven votes were cast, six of which were by members of the election board.

So far as could be ascertained, no names were written in on the ballots, voters evidently being satisfied with the men who were nominated for the board.

The city council will canvass the returns Monday evening and will issue a certificate of election. Following this, the elected men are required to take the oath, and when a majority of them have done so, they are to meet and organize. There is no time specified by law in which they must take the oath, and there is no legal designation of an individual to call the group together. The first meeting must be on the initiative of some member of the board.

The following compose the body: W. L. Grubb, John Cubbon, A. N. Zerman, D. N. Kelly, J. P. Baumgartner, J. E. Lebig, H. J. Forey, S. H. Finley, F. P. Nickey, O. R. Haan, F. C. Rowland, H. A. Gardner, C. D. Spicer, F. P. Jayne and L. G. Swales.

OFFER $500,000 TO BOY MOVIE MARVEL

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Jackie Coogan today was offered half a million dollars to come under the protective wing of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford and make four pictures.

The announcement marked the definite entry of Doug and Mary into the field of producing and distributing the work of other stars.

It is understood they have offered Jackie $500,000 and sixty per cent of the net profits of the four pictures. The highest offer hitherto made Jackie by producers was $20,000 a week.

It is understood that the Griffith Studios on Long Island will be closed, and the Griffith organization moved to Los Angeles as a part of the United Artists organization, and that offers similar to that made to Jackie will be made to four or five other stars by various members of United Artists.

MOVE TO LIFT BUILDING BAN SUCCEEDING

That the owners of a majority of the frontage on North Main street are with John O. Haley, in his fight to establish business enterprises on his property at Washington avenue and Main street, was clearly indicated today by petitions circulated on the street yesterday by M. Nison, J. C. Hamlin, P. C. Wedell and Martin Shields.

The petition requests the city council to remove present restrictions on business buildings north from Tenth street to the city limits. According to Shields, owners representing more than 65 per cent of the frontage signed the petition yesterday. This percentage was increased by signatures attached today.

The petition will be presented to the city council tonight at an adjourned meeting to be held especially to take action, so that Haley may proceed with his building program at the earliest date possible.

Residents on the street were given to understand by the council last Monday night that if they desired the street opened to business operations the present north line of the business zone would be eliminated on presentation of a petition bearing the names of owners of a majority of the frontage.

At the request of A. W. Rutan, attorney for the plaintiff in the action against Mrs. Haley, charging her with attempted construction of a building at Washington avenue and Main street without a permit, today was continued by City Recorder W. F. Heathman to Friday at 10 a. m. If the council tonight votes to amend the zoning ordinance, the suit probably will be dropped.

BRIDE LEFT BY MATE IN 3 MONTHS, CLAIM

The married life of Lester and Florence Carr lasted only three months, the wife asserted in a complaint for divorce filed in superior court here today.

Of Wedding In Keokuk

Many interested friends were ready to greet Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Skirven upon their arrival in this city Monday following a honeymoon trip from Keokuk, Ia., where their wedding was one of the social functions of the new year.

Occurring at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of January 5, at the home of the bride, Miss Daisie Frances Renaud, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emilie P. Renaud of Keokuk, the nuptial ceremony of the young couple was planned to be in keeping with the passing Yuletide season.

Tall red tapers, holly wreaths, poinsettias and pepper branches were used with a profusion of ferns and evergreens to give the desired decorative effect.

At the appointed hour, to the strains of Lohengrin, the bride descended the holly festooned stairway, leaning on the arm of her father, and preceded by her sister, Mrs. Roger Williams, as matron of honor.

At the altar in the bay window with its garlands of evergreens and holly with candles glowing on the scene, she was met by Mr. Skirven and his best man, Mr. Jesse D. Becker. The solemn marriage service was read by the Rev. W. S. D. Lamont of St. John's Episcopal church.

In describing the wedding, the daily papers of Keokuk said: "Miss Renaud, who is a very lovely girl, was exceptionally beautiful in her gown of silver canton crepe with long shirred panels. Silver grapes hanging from the grille, a wreath of silver leaves encircling her coffee and dainty silver slippers, completed her costume to which an arm cluster of pink roses and lavender sweet peas added a perfect touch.

Mrs. Williams as honor matron was gowned in jade green satin and self-tone lace with which she carried pink roses and violets.

Following the ceremony, supper was served to the guests who were seated at small tables decked with crystal candelsticks, red unshaded candles and smilax, while the bride's table was all in pink and silver.

Both Miss Renaud and Mr. Skirven were graduates of Keokuk high school, class of 1921, after which Miss Renaud attended Iowa State College where she was pledged to Beta Phi sorority while Mr. Skirven went to Knox college at Skirvin.

Last June Mr. Skirven, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Skirven, came to this city where they have established themselves firmly with a large circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Skirven sr. accompanied their son to Illinois for the wedding and will remain for a longer visit among their many friends in Keokuk, where Mr. Skirven was formerly publisher of the Daily Gate City.

Y. L. I.

Miss Zola Powelson, president of the local organization of the Young Ladies' Institute, together with Mrs. Thomas Feeley and Mrs. William Maag, were among the guests yesterday at the seventh anniversary of the Los Angeles chapter, No. 73, which was celebrated by a dinner served at the Mary Louise Tea Room, Lake avenue and Seventh street, Los Angeles.

White carnations and blue bachelor buttons were used in decorative effect and a program of violin and piano music accompanied the serving of the elaborate banquet. Music and a social evening followed the affair which was attended by over 300 members and guests.

Local Y. L. I. members are anticipating the regular meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the K. C. hall and a full attendance is desired, as plans for future entertainments are to be discussed.

Mark First Meeting Of Corps Federation

The Federation of Women's Relief Corps of Southern California held an all day meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, Fullerton, Monday, with a large attendance from each of the five corps of the federation, also department officers. Mrs. Emma Sheer, her staff of officers, and visiting past department and past national officers. Mrs. Estelle Ludwig, federation president, was in the chair.

A brief business session was held in the forenoon, when a vote was taken confirming the action of executive board in changing dates of meetings from once in three months to every two months. The department president, Mrs. Emma Sheer in reply to questions regarding federation methods replied that the work should closely follow lines of Relief Corps; that the department password should be used and everything conducted according to work outlined by the national organization for the corps. The speaker congratulated Mrs. Ludwig and Sedgwick Corps for having inaugurated this movement, which, she said, would spread all over California until every corps would be brought into line.

Mrs. Sheer thought groups of bettered corps, of limited number, fostered as working bodies, than large organizations covering extended territory, and that five corps seemed the ideal number for each district.

Dinner was served in the large banquet hall at twelve o'clock. Department officers and visiting officers led the march followed by members of the G. A. R. and corps until the tables were filled with one hundred and thirty guests, and a large contingent waiting for second table. An excellent repast was served and greatly enjoyed.

At 2 p. m. the afternoon session opened promptly with federation chaplain, Mrs. Alice Yount at the altar leading devotionals, followed by opening ode of Corps. Previous to the opening service the federation officers executed a beautiful drill as they filed into the hall and to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" renewed their pledge of faithfulness of the cause they represented.

Mrs. Grace Willard, national inspector, brought greetings from national president, Mrs. Marie Basham, who regretted her inability to be present. Mrs. Hattie Wood, department chaplain, expressed her pleasure at being permitted to be present, and wished success for the federation and its founders.

Mrs. Clara Harper, department press correspondent, made a few congratulatory remarks, as did Mrs. Mary Hartwell, past national chaplain. Mrs. May Nicholson, chairman, department executive board, Mrs. Hyland, Rebecca Sutton, Mrs. Ida Gribbling and other department officers.

Mrs. Sheer spoke feelingly of the work of her instituting and installing officer, Mrs. Ludwig, in launching this much needed work of co-operation among the various corps, and congratulated the department upon having enlisted another faithful worker among their number. The speaker hoped that before the end of her term of office, the entire corps of the department of California and Nevada would be united in district federations, the stronger ones helping and encouraging the weaker.

Mrs. Grace Willard, department chairman of child welfare, in a few remarks pointed out some of the avenues through which child welfare could be conducted. "Co-operate with other organizations engaged in such work. Labor for the enactment of laws for the protection of children. Work for Shepard-Towner bill; bill for compulsory education; scholarship fund and migratory schools; investigate child crime; find causes of malnutrition; investigate labor laws; vocational training in the public schools; the child before school age; and the child in school."

Interspersed with the speeches were special numbers of songs, readings and instrumental music. Edward Walton, of Whittier, a gifted young tenor, sang "The Rosary" and an encore, "Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Mrs. Frackentfield, of Whittier, presented a patriotic melody with eight ladies in costume. The Ladies quartette of Santa Ana, Mesdames Chapman, Ludwig, Wiley and Post, sang "Beautiful Flag" and "On a Sunday Morning." Little Miss Dorothy Waite of Fullerton danced her way into the hearts of all with her dainty dances.

Honeymoon-Lure
To Newly-Weds

Attractive in all its appointments was the pretty home wedding of Miss Bonney Wilkinson and Ralph John Mitchell, which was an event of yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ella L. Simberg of Newport Beach.

The ceremony was held at 5 o'clock and the bride was a picture of youthful happiness as she took her wedding vows in the presence of only a few relatives and close friends.

Mr. Mitchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mitchell and has made his home at Irvine ranch where his father is manager. He is a Stanford man and was also one of the brave boys who went to France in the interests of humanity.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy young pair left for San Diego where they planned to begin their honeymoon as guests of U. S. Grant hotel. From that point they have planned to wander over into the imperial valley, thence to the Colorado desert, and finally to the northward, taking in such points of interest as fancy may suggest they will arrive at the cozy bungalow which awaits them near Irvine the latter part of the month.

University Study

The Santa Ana division of the University Study section of the Ebbs society met yesterday at the home of Miss Mabel McFadden, where a most interesting and comprehensive review of the second volume of Thompson's Outlines of Science was given.

The next lecture meeting will be held at the home of Mr. E. M. Nealley in Tustin on Wednesday, January 24, when Prof. J. Russell Bruff will lecture on "Heredity."

Miss B. Aiken Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"When I was about fourteen years of age my face, arms and scalp broke out with eczema. It started with little pimples and blisters which spread rapidly. I could not stand any clothing on my arms, and my face was disfigured. My scalp itched and burned so that I could not sleep, and my hair became dry and lifeless and fell out in handfuls.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Burniss Aiken, Lyndon, Kansas.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum helps to prevent skin troubles.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, P. O. Box 41, Station 1, Lowell, Mass. U. S. A." Write for free literature. Soap 25¢, Ointment 25¢ and 50¢, Talcum 25¢.

A scene from "The Kentucky Derby," picture starring Reginald Denny which begins a three day engagement at the Yost theater tonight.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS
YOST—Vaudeville and "The Kentucky Derby," with Reginald Denny.
WEST END—Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack."
TEMPLE—Mary Pickford in "Tess of the Storm Country."
PRINCESS—Harry Carey in "The Kick Back."

HAROLD LLOYD REFUSES BIG STAGE OFFER.

Will Harold Lloyd give up the screen for a flyer at the stage? Many movie stars have had such ambitions, but there is not a chance that Lloyd ever will appear in the legitimate again.

While he was making "Dr. Jack," which will be his next feature comedy release, and, incidentally, the first on his new Pathé contract, Lloyd received a flattering proposition from the Selwyns of New York to return to the stage.

Lloyd's answer to this offer was the same he has given the past three years to all requests that he make personal appearances: "No. People know him only as a screen character. To step out of that province would be a mistake, he feels, and he therefore has repeatedly and consistently maintained his policy of 'no personal appearances.'"

HARRY CAREY STARS IN PRINCESS PICTURE.

Action in capital letters. Speed, more speed and still more speed—stopping only for a love scene that goes right smack to the hearts of all beholders.

That, briefly, is "The Kick Back," in which Harry Carey will appear for the last times tonight at the Princess theater.

"The Kick Back" is unquestionably Carey's greatest production to date. It is great, say the critics, because it possesses all those sure-fire entertainment elements that thrill and satisfy.

MINISTER'S ADDRESS HEARD BY HI Y CLUB

Members of the Hi Y club today were recalling points made in an address to the club at the high school cafeteria last night by the Rev. Moffitt Rhodes, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church, when he spoke on "Playing the Game." He declared that boys who showed "yellow" in athletics would be quitters in the same of life. The session was the bi-monthly meeting of the club.

Dinner was served by the Y girls of the school. Those present were: George Richie, Bernard Thoele, Horace Perkins, Leland Finley, Wendie Finley, Wendell Heil, Elliot Best, H. BROTHER OF COUNTY MAN LOSES DIVORCE

Orange and Riverside county friends and relatives of William Rohrer, former resident of Redlands, were interested today in the announcement in Chicago that Mrs. George Hamon Rohrer had been granted a divorce from her wealthy husband. At the same time she obtained the right to change her name to Hamon. Rohrer is a son of Mrs. Kate Rohrer, Redlands, and a brother of Ralph Rohrer of Fullerton.

In declining to accept alimony, Mrs. Rohrer disclosed that she had inherited $1,400,000 from the estate of her former husband, Jake Hamon, Oklahoma millionaire, who was killed in Ardmore by Clara Smith Hamon. Mrs. Rohrer charged her husband with extreme cruelty. She testified that he mistreated her, wrenching her wrists, when she asked him "for a little spending money."

Stocks, Markets and Financial News

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

Modification of French Invasion Program Stimulates Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—After waiting most of the day for some development abroad to furnish an impulse in either direction, stocks found incentive to rally in the apparent Italian dissatisfaction over the invasion of the Ruhr district, which presumably was the reason for withdrawal of the French forces from certain localities.

During the morning the bear party made itself felt in a drive on the speculative leaders like Baldwin, Studebaker and Steel common and on special stocks, such as Repligle and General Asphalt.

Dullness prevailed during the middle of the day but the general list was galvanized into life around 2 p. m. by publication of Euro-pean dispatches telling of modification of the French occupation.

Quick rebounds were scored by issues which had been under pressure, while bullish activity was renewed in stocks like Postum Cereal, Beechnut Packing, California Petroleum and Cosden.

The market closed higher.

Closing prices included:

Delpha Anent and Martha Deck, asserted bandit queens, and their three asserted accomplices, who, it is charged, held up and robbed McKim May, Santa Ana automobile dealer, in Los Angeles several weeks ago, today were in the Los Angeles county jail in default of $25,000 bail each, awaiting trial in superior court. Others held were J. H. Robinson, R. W. Simpson and Vasco Lewis.

According to May, who was the principal witness against the five when they appeared before Justice Baird in Los Angeles, yesterday, there was no doubt in his mind that the men and the two women were the same parties who robbed

PLOT TO DODGE JAIL. SPEEDER CASE CLAIM

A telegram and a doctor's certificate almost saved Stanley Dutton, Long Beach, from the possibility of a ten days' sojourn in the county jail for speeding more than 50 miles an hour.

A suspicious officer, however, spoiled what was declared to have been a clever scheme to evade the ten days' rest.

Dutton was scheduled to have appeared before Justice J. B. Cox today. Monday, however, he wrote a letter to the speeder's nemesis, enclosing a physician's certificate, which told of the precarious health of the Dutton baby, and a telegram, which Dutton claimed he received early on New Year's day in San Diego, and which he said was the cause of his haste as he passed through Motorcycle Officer Vernon Meyers' trap on the Irvine boulevard.

Apparently all was well with the alibi. Meyers was not so certain, however, and went to Long Beach to investigate yesterday.

The telegram, he learned, had been sent from Long Beach January 3—two days after the man was arrested. The date on the copy which was displayed in court, had been altered, Meyers believed.

Probably Stanley Deer, Eagle Rock motorist who was arrested New Year's day in a trap at Irvine by Motorcycle Officer Meyers, desired another week in which to obtain his towels and soap for use in the county jail.

Case Continued.
At any rate, he asked that his case, which was also scheduled to come before Justice J. B. Cox today, be continued to January 17. The continuance was granted.

Deer was arrested as he was progressing, heavily footed, past a trap on the San Diego road. Records say that he was traveling 51 miles an hour.

Normally, should the defendant's guilt be proved, he would draw a ten-day period of confinement with Jailer Orin Moncrief.

PLAN PROBE IN PIPE BLAST DEATH CASE

An inquest to determine the exact cause of the death of Paul Cullen, 24, employed by the Union Oil company at Richfield, will be held at Fullerton tomorrow at 10 a. m., according to Coroner C. D. Brown. Cullen, said to have been scalded about the head and body when a pipe exploded in one of the company's tanks, died last night at the Fullerton hospital. He was unmarried and formerly lived in Nebraska.

Company officials, declaring they had not made a thorough investigation of the accident, were unable to say what caused the explosion.

"All we know about the case is that Cullen was injured while working in one of the company's tanks at Richfield Monday night," said a report issued from the company's offices.

At the Seale Funeral parlors, Fullerton, it was said the body probably would be sent to Nebraska for burial.

MOTORIST IS JAILED ON BENCH WARRANT

Thomas Hogan, Long Beach, was in the county jail today following his arrest in Long Beach by Under Sheriff Ed French, on a bench warrant, issued by Superior Judge Z. B. West, when he failed to appear last Friday morning for arraignment on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Hogan, it was understood, intended to plead for probation. When he did not appear last Friday, the court waited several days and then issued the bench warrant for his arrest.

This means that in addition to the felony charges involving the alleged mismanagement of his automobile, he will face charges of contempt of court.

He was confined in the county jail today. Should he be released under bonds, or be freed on probation, he will be held for the Long Beach authorities who hold a warrant for his arrest on bad check charges, jail officials here were notified.

SAN FRANCISCO BANK MERGER IS PLANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—A step toward the amalgamation of the Security Bank and Trust company and the American National bank, two of the most important financial institutions in the city, has been taken through an offer of P. E. Boyles, chairman of the board of directors of the American National bank, to buy the controlling stock of the Security company. The institutions, if merged, will have assets in excess of $31,000,000.

WOMAN'S GEMS VANISH NEAR PALISADES

What became of three diamond rings, valued at $500 and the property of Mrs. Harry Rutan of Pasadena, which disappeared under mysterious circumstances when Mrs. Rutan's husband and two others lost their lives off the Newport harbor jetty on New Year's day?

This question, propounded by Frank Walton, friend and companion of Rutan, has not been answered satisfactorily, according to Orange county officers who have been working quietly in an effort to locate the missing gems.

Rutan, 43 years old and a resident of the Crown City, was a member of a New Year's day outing party. Rutan, Mrs. Ernest Metcalf and her 6-year-old son, met death when a small boat capsized.

Those in the boat with Rutan, Mrs. Metcalf and her son included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walton and daughter, Dorothy, La Canada; Ernest Metcalf and two sons and Mrs. Rutan. The rowboat in which they put out from Balboa was caught in the swift water of the outgoing tide and swamped.

Takes Charge of Gems.
"Just before we entered the boat," said Walton, when questioned at his home in Pasadena today, "Mrs. Rutan asked her husband to take charge of her rings."

"She handed him the gems, including her engagement ring, and he placed them in a small cardboard box. The box he placed in his trousers pocket."

"After the excitement attending the terrible ordeal had subsided somewhat, it was found that this box had disappeared. We found his watch, his purse and a small pocket camera, but there was no trace of the rings."

"Just what became of the small box and its contents is a mystery we have been unable to solve. Some have suggested that the box might have dropped from Rutan's pocket when the boat overturned."

Makes No Accusations.
"Perhaps this is true, but I am inclined to doubt it. It was a pasteboard box, as I have explained, and this, it seems to me, would have a tendency to cling to the pocket if the clothing were water soaked."

"We have made no accusations, inasmuch as there were any number of kindly disposed persons who attempted to give first aid when the accident occurred. We have offered a reward, however, and this will be liberal if the rings are returned. No questions will be asked."

Officers assigned to the case said Rutan's body was surrounded by a crowd as first aid measures were made to revive him in the streets and at a garage in Balboa. So far as the officers were able to learn no articles were picked up by anyone in the crowd.

Worked Over Body.
The Newport Beach life saving crew worked over the bodies of the three victims with pulmotors but were unable to restore life. Coroner C. D. Brown conducted an inquest at Balboa. Rutan's body was brought to the Smith and Tutthill funeral parlors here, and was later removed to Pasadena by a Crown City undertaking firm.

NEW TRIAL FOR 2 ON CHARGE TO MURDER

Pete Arviso and Albert Rizzo, alleged cafe bandits, were being held today pending arrangements for a new trial on charges of assault to commit murder.

A jury, late yesterday, disagreed after seven hours' deliberation. Unofficially it was learned that they stood 10 to 2 for conviction in the Rizzo case, and 8 to 4 for conviction in the case of Arviso.

At the conclusion of heated arguments on the part of Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozely and Defense Attorney Z. B. West Jr., the case went to the jury shortly before noon yesterday. Several times during the afternoon, Bailiff W. E. Bates asked if an agreement had been reached, and each time the answer was in the negative. At 5:15 p. m. the jury was dismissed when it was learned that they were hopelessly deadlocked.

Arviso and Rizzo were arrested in Tony's cafe October 9 after, officers declare, they had attempted to hold up the employees and rob them. In a scuffle, Arviso's gun was taken by Pablo Sanchez, a dishwasher, and Rizzo, firing, he said, to protect his pal, wounded the dishwasher.

Officers, standing nearby, heard the shots, and rushing in, arrested the men.

KANSAS WOMAN IS CASHIER OF BANK

NEWTON, Kan., Jan. 10.—Recent headlines have been telling of cashiers who decamped to Canada. This is a more cheerful tale. It is a story of a cashier who saved a bank, of Sue Bell, who did her banking on a corner of her father's lot.

Sounds like a lemonade stand, doesn't it, the kind you used to run for two days at a time on a capital, say, of 15 cents?

This was no toy bank and the lot in question was a quarter section fourteen miles southwest of Abilene, Kansas, on which Clements Bell, her father, had settled soon after the Civil War. In course of time Holland, a village with aspirations, came into being on the corner of the Bell home place. Every self-respecting town has a bank. So in 1910 forty prominent citizens organized one. Two years later they discovered that the man who had the "Cashier" sign on his desk was really no cashier at all. They began to look around for another.

"Sue Bell," one of the directors announced calmly after a conference lasting an hour during which many names had been mentioned for the place.

Accustomed to Women
Kansas is accustomed to see women in public positions, for it was the first state to give them the vote, but a woman cashier! There is something sacred about negotiating a loan. It takes a hard-headed business man to do that. At least such is the popular conception. Nevertheless, after a brief discussion the vote for Sue was one short of unanimous. "Clem" Bell, vice president of the bank and the father of the proposed cashier, cast the dissenting vote.

Why She Decided to Accept
When Sue was asked to accept the position she declined. It had been the early ambition of her life to be a jockey. But at 16 she became a school teacher and at 20 she was manager of the telephone exchange of Oklahoma City.

"I am afraid I am too inexperienced," she said when a delegation from the bank waited on her. "Your father said the same thing," a director told her.

"Did he?" Sue exclaimed, flaring up. "I will show him a thing or two. I will go to work as cashier tomorrow."

She got an experienced banker friend from Abilene to help her with the tangled books for a few days, but at the end of the second day she sent him packing. "I can run this bank now," she said.

For the last ten years Sue Bell has been the officer in charge. It is a small bank and she does all there is to do. She makes the loans and collects them; keeps the books, builds the fires and sweeps the floors.

No Fear of Bank Robbers
On the heels of harvest an enormous increase of deposits and checking out occurs, and then the cashier of the Farmers State Bank often works late into the night. Sometimes her father becomes uneasy when he thinks of his daughter down there alone in the bank long hours after most of the countryside has gone to bed, but Sue Bell has no fear of bank robbers. Certain precautions have been taken against a surprise attack and she rests serene in the knowledge that were an alarm to sound to the homes of the farmers about an army of determined men would be on hand instantly to defend her and the bank.

During those ten years of banking Sue Bell made and paid to her stockholders a dividend every year until 1921. Crop failures and the heavy losses of cattle-men in that year made it out of the question. Indeed, there were days when she didn't know where to turn to get cash. There was plenty of good paper in the bank, but so was there, it seemed, in all the other banks, and none could use more. She appealed to one after another for credit and then, when there seemed she wouldn't be able to weather through without calling upon her directors for pledges of their personal credit, the head of a large bank in a neighboring city told her that he would take the paper. With new assurance and new courage she went again to the banks of her own county and they concluded that if Sue Bell's paper was good enough for the city bank it was for them.

So the aid of the big banker wasn't needed after all, but when Sue Bell thinks of him she seems to hear the rustle of a wing.

"I shall love him while I live," she puts it.

"FORTY AND EIGHT" AIDS BUDDIES' KIN

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 10.—74-year-old P. Eivers, national commander (officially he is chef de chemin de fer) of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, honor organization of the American Legion, outlined a national program for the "Forty-and-Eight" which has for its purpose the education of orphaned children of the World War. Commander Eivers has just returned from a visit to the national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis, to his own national headquarters in this city.

Members of the "Forty-and-Eight" are identified by an underslung tab suspended from the ordinary American Legion lapel button bearing the number "40/8." The organization bears much the same relation to the Legion that the Mystic Shrine does to the Masonic order. It is the playground society. It is based on the French railway system. But there is a serious purpose back of it and back of its organization. Commander Eivers explained it.

Explains Aims of Order
"We of the American Legion know that in the early days, after we had 'sold' the idea of the legion to former service men, we had to find out how to hold their interest in the Legion," Commander Eivers said. "The 'Forty-and-Eight' through its activities has made it possible to increase the number of men actively interested in legion affairs."

"The idea of the 'Forty-and-Eight' is a good one. All posts of the legion in the United States are alike so far as post meetings are concerned. The men came every week. Those who were not orators or gifted along other lines sat back. As a result the trained minds took the lead. The result was that after a while the buck privates and others not among the leaders began to drop out. The legion membership slumped. Now we are getting back. We are conferring upon those members who are not found among the trained leaders a playground society where they can mix and have a good time. And we are working out a constructive program so they can be of service to their community."

According to oculists, women generally have better eyesight than men.

Orange county ranchers and farm bureau executives today were keenly interested in the announcement by Horticultural Commissioner A. E. Bottel that Riverside county's chief agricultural industry, from the standpoint of acreage and production, is the raising of alfalfa.

According to the annual acreage and crop report, just made public by Bottel, 18,640 tons of alfalfa were produced last season. The total bearing acreage was 22,922.

The citrus industry, however, was not far behind. The total acreage of navel oranges was 14,977 and valencias 8,339, the production amounting to 1,634,213 boxes. For Pomeles, the acreage was 434 and the production 47,421 boxes; for seedlings 434 acres. Lemons raised totaled 438,825 boxes from 5312 acres.

Big Apricot Yield
Apricots and peaches competed closely. The acreage of apricots during the season was 7500 and the production 14,998.25 tons, while for peaches 10,605 tons of pears from 750 acres; 1365.25 tons of almonds from 1736 acres; 1321 tons of apples, 2905 acres; 404.1 tons of cherries, 799 acres; 850 tons of olives, 2035 acres; 4458.5 crates of berries from 422 acres; 133.5 tons of dates, 522 acres; 5 tons of figs, 39 acres; 5473.5 tons of table and wine raisins, 9829 acres; 70.5 tons of plums, 38 acres; 75.75 tons of beans, 669 acres; 40,056 tons of hay, 24,350 acres; 128,576.37 sacks of potatoes, 1891 acres; 13,425 sacks of sweet potatoes, 74.5 acres; 711 tons from 5 acres of green corn; Indian corn, 1752 acres; 34384 tons of sorghum, 4144 acres; 357,500 sacks of onions,

German Chemists Turn
Out New Fertilizer
Of Great Crop Value

German agricultural chemists have developed a new fertilizer of an earthy, turf-like substance which, it is claimed, develops a crop more fully than any other fertilizer now in use.

The discovery, just announced, was developed in secrecy. It was found that it would be possible to increase manifold the number of bacilli in soil, thereby increasing greatly the nitrogen productivity of the soil in which they work.

The method by which this fertilizer is obtained was not made public.

It is asserted, however, that it is a rich bacteria culture developed in an earthy substance similar to the turf swamps and lowlands.

The new fertilizer, according to information reaching this county, is also quite cheap.

PEACH AND FIG
INSTITUTE TO LURE MANY

Final plans for the seventh annual peach and fig institute, which will be held at Merced Friday and Saturday, January 19 and 20, have been completed, according to Prof. Ira J. Condit, who has charge of the cultural work of the California Peach and Fig growers.

One of the largest audiences which has assembled at the yearly institutes is expected, as most of the growers of the state have signified their intention of being present. Virtually all the wholesalers who deal in canned figs and peaches will be represented.

Among those who will address the big gathering are J. F. Niswander, general manager of the association in Fresno; Prof. F. J. Viehmeier, of the Mountain View experiment station; Prof. M. E. Jaffa, of the nutrition division of the university; Miss Edith Phillips, expert on fig diseases; A. E. Sunderland and Farm Advisors J. P. Benson, Fresno, and A. A. Jungerman, Modesto.

LEMON GROWER
IN PLEA FOR
TWO POOLSPoints Out Injustice of Plan
In Use at Ontario,
California

George N. Hamilton, prominent lemon grower of Ontario, and a director of the Upland Lemon Growers' association, one of the largest concerns for the exclusive handling of lemons in California, is on record today as favoring adoption by the organization of a plan calling for fewer pools. He is in favor of one or two pools each year.

"Instead of dividing the lemon crop into eight or nine pools," says Hamilton, "I think we should unite in an effort to reduce the number. The plan in use during the past year has resulted in dissatisfaction and injustice."

"Because some growers are picked at the beginning of the pool, and some at the end of the pool, it usually happens that a number of groves that are picked in pool No. 3, for example, just before or on the same day or just after a number of groves are picked in pool No. 2, and such is the case at the end of every pool.

"This means that at the end of every pool, the fruit from a number of groves brings to the grower from one cent to $2 less per box than fruit picked from a number of other groves during the same week or two.

"I cannot believe that it is just or in the interest of harmony and happy co-operation to pool our fruit by a plan that makes eight or nine pools each year when my fruit, for example, is picked on the same day or within the same week as your fruit is sure to bring me from one cent to $2 a box more or less than your fruit brings you.

"That is the inevitable consequence of having eight or nine pools a year or a pick a pool, as has been our custom.

"Those with experience say that a large percentage of our lemons are picked in November, December and January will, as a rule, keep until June. The May and June market is usually as good a market to sell on as any during the year. The right of all growers whose lemons will keep, to have their fruit sold on a good market is equal, and should be safeguarded as far as possible.

Favors Single Pool
"Three pools are better than eight or nine pools a year. Two pools, one of three or four months and one of three or four months, are better than three pools, and I am almost persuaded that one pool a year of the good-keeping fruit would be the best of all for the association as a whole."

Hamilton advocates frequent pickings during the winter months when there is danger of frost, as a measure of protection for the growers, and points out that the sustained heavy and unnecessary loss through failure to adopt this plan last year.

Hamilton points out that the one-pool-a-year plan is being used in a number of Southern California packing houses, and that it is proving highly satisfactory.

PROMINENT PEOPLE TO LEAVE FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Jan. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Fordham, of 820 West Commonwealth, will make their home in Los Angeles, they are moving to that city Saturday, where for the present they will make their home at the Santa Barbara apartments, with their son, E. J. Fordham, until they find a suitable place for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Fordham and their family came to Fullerton in 1912 from Brantford, Canada, since which time they have been prominent in the life of the city. Mr. Fordham has been employed by the First National bank here for a long period and on leaving was presented by the bank officials with a handsome Masonic fob in appreciation of his faithful services.

OIL MEN TO ORGANIZE
FULLERTON, Jan. 10.—Plans are under way, it was learned today, for an organization of independent oil station operators of the county at a meeting to be held some time during next week, it is said.

For some time past independent dealers in the county have been quietly working with the aim of forming a county organization which they hope soon to make state-wide. There are five independent dealers in Fullerton and some of them are active in the new project. It is stated by parties who claim to be in a position to know, that nearly every independent dealer in the county is favorable to the proposition.

Strawberry Patch and Home Place Go Hand
In Hand, Expert Says

"Start the new year with a few rows of strawberry plants in that vacant spot in the home place," says A. E. Henderley.

"How delicious the fresh berries are, and what satisfaction there is in 'picking your own' at a time when the Japanese is charging two-bits per box for them.

"There is no really good reason why every Southern Californian who has the land, the water and the inclination should not have a strawberry patch.

"But if you want to pick berries from your patch during 1923, you will have to set the strawberry planting month.

"Like most plants, strawberries like a medium loam soil, rich in plant food, and just enough water. Do not neglect the plants in summer time. They positively must have a regular supply of water. It is better to set the plants in the late afternoon."

ORANGE COUNTY HAS FINE RECORD WITH
INSPECTION CREWS

Orange county, according to Glen Wiley, inspector of the federal and state departments of agriculture, ranks high in the matter of co-operation with state and national inspectors.

"This county," said Wiley, "is to be commended for the breadth of its vision when it comes to a question of co-operation in connection with shipment of citrus and other products. Orange county leads all other counties in regard to co-operative measures governing shipments of frosted fruits. Your growers and packing house executives are particularly careful and they guard the county's reputation whenever the opportunity presents itself."

Wiley, stationed in Santa Ana for the purpose of supervising minute examination of lettuce and cauliflower, said the inspection shows that Orange county lettuce is singularly free from blight.

MARKET 1922
TOP PRICE

More than half the marketable surplus of the 1922 alfalfa crop has already been marketed, a survey just completed by the United States department of agriculture indicates. A survey made September 15 indicated a marketable surplus of about 15 per cent less than the amount marketed during 1921. It is now estimated that about 65 per cent of this surplus was marketed by December 15, compared with 45 per cent of the 1921 crop at the corresponding date last year.

The movement of timothy hay to market, however, has not been as heavy to date for the corresponding period last year. It is estimated that about 36 per cent of the marketable surplus had been marketed to December 15, compared with 38 per cent on December 15, 1921. Fifty per cent of the prairie surplus has been marketed, according to these estimates, compared with 35 per cent for the corresponding period last year.

Drouth in the southwest is reported to have curtailed production of alfalfa and also to have created an unusually large demand resulting in heavy movement of alfalfa from the western producing territories into the drouth area.

The increased demand for alfalfa has been reflected in the price trend. On September 15, No. 1 alfalfa was quoted at the principal markets at an average price of $21.50 per ton. On December 15 the average price of alfalfa at the same markets was $23.75 per ton.

$782,000 WILL BE
ADVERTISING TOTAL

ANAHEIM, Jan. 10.—On the basis of a crop estimate of 12,074,000 boxes the California Fruit Growers' Exchange will expend $782,000 for advertising in the year ending Nov. 1, 1923, it was announced today.

One-half cent more per box of oranges was voted by the directors, which brings the rate to four cents. A small carry-over is included in the estimate mentioned. The expenditure on oranges is $484,000 and on lemons $282,000. On lemons six and one-half cents per box is allowed. On grapefruit $16,500 will be expended, or four cents per box.

All of these estimates are larger than in the previous year because the crop is larger and the rate on oranges higher.

At least 5000 tractor machines will be manufactured.

NEW GARAGE STARTED
The first nails have been driven for the new $25,000 concrete show-rooms and garage of A. Schulte, which the latter has leased to Dole and company. The building will be 140 by 50 feet and one story high. John A. Volz and sons are the contractors. The site adjoins the auto club of Southern California in South Los Angeles street.

INSTITUTE FOR FARMERS WILL MEET JAN. 16Production Costs and Farm
Accounting Will Be Featured

Production costs and simple methods of farm accounting will be featured at the third annual farm management institute, scheduled to be held here January 16 to 20, according to H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor.

"Some fifty Orange county farmers have kept accounts during the past year, in order to analyze their farming business," said Wahlberg. "Many of these will summarize their year's business and report at the meeting to be held here."

"The sessions will open in the city hall, Santa Ana, January 16, at 10 a. m. At this time dairy costs and accounting will be featured."

"The following day's session will be devoted to poultry production costs and accounting."

"Thursday, at 9:30 a. m., a session will be held at the Fullerton high school, when citrus production costs will be discussed at length."

"The sessions will extend over Friday and Saturday, when walnut production costs, field crops and summaries for last year's accounting will be in order, at the city hall in Santa Ana."

"Sessions each day will be enlivened by special chart lectures and data compiled by R. V. Wright, farm management specialist of the college of agriculture."

"Mr. Wright has spent many months in gathering valuable production cost data for the principal agricultural industries of Orange county. These include citrus, walnuts, field crops and poultry raising. The object of the institute is to demonstrate the dollars and cents analysis of farming enterprises."

GROWERS WILL ORGANIZE AT WHITTIER

The Southern California Persimmon Growers' association will soon be a reality, according to H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor.

"At a conference between representatives of the farm bureaus of Orange and Los Angeles counties," said Wahlberg, "an executive committee pro tem was appointed to take the initial steps in the plan to organize the association."

"This committee will meet at Whittier, Saturday, February 17, at 10 a. m. The members of the committee are G. W. Sherwood, Fullerton; George Doty, Santa Barbara; P. W. Kelsey, El Monte, and J. A. Schoonover, Alhambra."

"This committee will draft a schedule of work for the proposed organization, discuss ways and means for launching the association, and lay the foundations for the investigation of many problems that confront this comparatively new industry."

W. S. Rosecrans, secretary of the Los Angeles county farm bureau, is actively co-operating with Wahlberg and his associates in the preliminary work of organizing the persimmon growers.

PRODUCE GASOLINE
AT NEW REFINERY

The most recent addition to the industries of Orange county is the opening of a modern refinery at Huntington Beach by the Mutual Refining company, it was stated here today.

According to Joseph L. Castor, president of the company, work on the refinery was rushed to completion with all possible haste. The plant is now producing gasoline.

"It is interesting to note," said Castor, "that this gasoline, which we have given the name 'Blue Break', is refined by an entirely new process which is an improvement over the general procedure of refining."

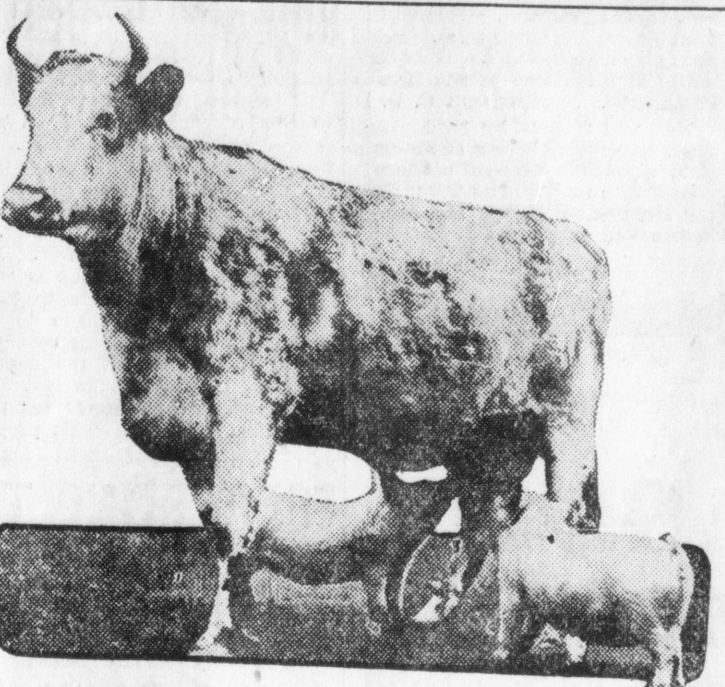

"Our method of refining has been developed by John Knudsen, who has had many years of experience as refinery superintendent with one of California's largest oil companies."

"By this method the gasoline produced has even gravity throughout any given volume and for this reason the flow of gas to the engine is always constant and does not come over in spurts."

Owing to the fact that this product is refined from crude oil produced in Orange county, refined here and sold by Orange county dealers, we feel that it will appeal to Orange county motorists and that, upon giving it a trial, they will be convinced of its superior quality."

"Blue Streak" gasoline is distributed in Orange county by Gardner and Hotz, 305 East Third street, Santa Ana.

Cow Plays Part of Mother
To Litter of Hungry Pigs

Milk direct from headquarters! These little porkers have no fear of the middleman. One touch of hunger, it seems, makes the whole world kin. This cow in Warrington, England has a strange family, consisting of a sow and a litter of twelve pigs. When the dinner hour arrives the pigs turn confidently to their source of supply.

TRACTOR PLAN OUTLINED BY FARM HEAD

"Most of the troubles with tractors arise from lack of familiarity with the machine," said W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, here today, discussing the enrollments for the second annual tractor school, to be held in Orange county the week of January 29 to February 3.

"The purpose of the school is not to make tractor mechanics, but to give such instruction to owners and operators as will enable them to operate their machines with pleasure and profit. Last year twelve of these schools were offered at various points, with a total enrollment of close to 600 pupils."

"Enrollment here is limited to eighty and those desiring to join the classes are urged to get in touch with the farm advisor's office, 508 North Main street, Santa Ana."

"The major part of the work is devoted to the actual repairing and adjusting of the tractors brought in for this purpose. Two hours are devoted to lecture-demonstrations covering such subjects as fuels, carburetor adjusting, magneto and ignition troubles, lubrication, tractor management, hitching, etc."

"The remaining six hours are devoted to shop work. This is divided into three parts. First, bench repairing, including such work as babbiting and scraping of bearings, valve grinding, soldering, piston ring fitting, etc. Second, adjusting, trouble shooting and operation of either new tractors or tractors that have been rehaired by the students. Third, the overhauling of used gas engines and tractors."

'LIKKE' MADE FROM
LEATHER LEADS ITS
MAKER TO SENTENCE

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—"They ain't no better likker in Broadway, Illinois," said Charles Pensky, aged 70, as he lifted his chin belligerently and glared at the court through spectacle rims in which there were no glasses.

Pensky was before Chief Justice McKelney on a charge of manufacturing intoxicants.

"What do you make it out of?" asked the court.

"Leather," came back Pensky, "charcoal, sugar, anything. It's the greatest medicine in the world. Ain't got the rheumatism no more since I rubbed it on my legs—no colds, chills nor aches—"

"Whoa!" commanded the court, as he handed Pensky a black bottle. "Is this your liquor?"

Pensky grabbed the bottle and before the court attaches could restrain him, a pint of its contents had gurgled down his throat.

"That's my stuff all right—the best in Broadway. It will cure anything from pip to broken legs."

"Three months in jail" said the court. "The Spartan citizens of Broadway will have to get along on sulphuric acid or gasoline until you get out."

Pests

"The gopher," said A. A. Brock, Orange county horticultural commissioner, "is one of the most serious pests we have to combat—and also the hardest to control."

"It seems that the farmer must always be on the alert to prevent destruction of his products from the inroads of pests of one kind or another."

"When the weeds have been destroyed, which, if permitted to flourish, take from his crops moisture and plant food, he finds himself again confronted by a very serious problem. This is the menace of the gopher and the ground squirrel."

"The squirrel is capable of multiplying rapidly and can destroy many thousands of dollars' worth of farm crops. There are two general methods of controlling this rodent. The one most commonly used is that of placing poison grain near the runways. The following formula is used for preparing poisoned barley:

"Barley, (clean grain), sixteen quarts; strychnine, (powdered alkaloid), one ounce; bicarbonate of soda, one ounce; thin starch paste, 3-4 pint; heavy corn syrup, 1-4 pint; glycerin, one tablespoon; saccharin, 1-10 ounce."

"This can be used with fair success at most any season of the year, but with better results in the late fall and early spring."

Other Methods.
"The surest and most effective way of destroying this pest is by fumigating. This is accomplished by placing in the burrows a 'waste ball' or some other absorbent saturated with carbon bisulphide which will carry about two ounces of the liquid. This is done by placing in the container about sixty or seventy 'waste balls' over which is poured a gallon of the liquid."

"After the 'waste balls' are well saturated, they are taken from the container and placed in the burrows. The entrance should be closed immediately. Better results have been thought to be accomplished by allowing the balls to remain in the burrow from three to five minutes, allowing the gas to diffuse throughout the runway. Then ignite prior to covering the

Care of the Eyes

BY DR. ROY S. HORTON
OP-TOM-EYRISTAre the Visual Powers of the Race
Retragading?

The Following Discussion Will Possibly Clear up a Point or two for Those Who have been Wondering Why Glasses are Required to a Greater Extent Today Than Ever Before.

Once in a while you will hear people express amazement at the number of people wearing glasses. Old folks, middle-aged folks, young folks and children—all wearing glasses! You can see an example of practically all these ages if you watch the passing crowd at a busy corner for sixty seconds!

Such, however, is no reason for wonder or bewilderment. It does not mean that the human machine is breaking down. Rather it is a striking portent of progress. The fact that so many people are now wearing glasses clearly indicates that people at least are becoming awake to the realization of eye weaknesses.

Our forefathers and ancestors back almost to time immemorial perhaps had no better eyes on an average than the race has today. The difference comes in this: Life away back there—the requirements of living were such that errors of vision that would cause the modern man or woman untold difficulty were never noticed. The whole proposition is explained in the simple fact that modern life requires a wider and more efficient visual service of the eyes.

Just a moment of reverie to compare our modern life with living in the past will make this all clear. Away back yonder man lived in the outdoors almost exclusively. His was a wild, roving life. He moved about with his herds seeking the places always where pastures were greenest. As time went on life became more stable, but life was still most uncomplicated. Even in our own land the pioneer's axe has hardly ceased to ring, where today great modern metropolitan cities tower.

Surrounded with the quiet, soothing blends of Nature's color scheme and doing little close work, age only brought a demand for spectacles. Of course we are speaking in general terms. There must have been many people whose eyes could have been made much more enjoyable if they could have secured the boon of glasses.

Compare the simple life of the past with the complex life of today, when we are living years every day, comparatively speaking. Modern industry, modern business, modern education—every phase of modern life requires good vision. The man or woman, young or old, who is attempting to do his or her work with a poorly functioning pair of eyes—is working under tremendous handicap. The constant strain to get effective vision depletes the vitality to a much greater degree than the labor of the job itself.

What Does a Sack of Cement Mean to You?

Have you ever thought of it?

Inert and useless stone, blasted from the earth, guided through scores of intricate processes under the watchful care of chemist and engineer, converted into impalpable powder, shipped to every corner of the country and then, as if by magic, transformed again to stone—to make sanitary and safe the isolated home of the farmer—

to increase his yields and profits—to house the product of his fields in silo and elevators—to bridge rivers—
to revitalize town property by making possible the towering architecture of today—to build tunnels and subways to speed the city worker to his home—to make more beautiful and economical and enduring the cottage, the workshop and the mansion—to increase the comfort and economy of motor travel, by roads as even and hard as chiseled stone—to make structures of every sort more secure against fire and the ravages of wear and time.

These are but a few of the uses of cement. They indicate what one industry can mean to a nation.

But the industry's meaning to you individually must naturally depend on what you know of it—on what you know of cement, the care taken in making it, the ease with which you can avail yourself of it.

Advertisements to follow will tell you about these things.

SUPERVISORS DEFER FAIR SITE ANSWER

Under an agreement reached late yesterday afternoon, the board of supervisors next Tuesday will deliver its answer to the request of the Orange County Fair association that the county buy thirty-one acres on Edinger street as a portion of a county fair site.

While the supervisors listened attentively and with interest and in a friendly spirit to the request presented to them yesterday afternoon, doubt was expressed by the supervisors as to whether it would be possible to make the purchase under this year's budget. "I realize that the land is worth the money," said T. B. Talbert, chairman of the board. "I wanted the county to buy that property several years ago when the land could have been had for half what it would bring now. I believe in the county fair. But our situation at this time is such that we may be unable to raise the cash. We will have to examine our various funds carefully to see if we can get the money. The tax levy was made last September on our estimates for projects then in sight. This project was not then up. We are likely to find that we cannot spend this amount of money excepting on projects already under way until after July 1, when the new fiscal year begins."

The matter was taken under advisement until next Tuesday. The proposal put to the county, in brief, was this: The Orange County Fair association's executive committee has decided upon the site at the southwest edge of Santa Ana. The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce proposed to it the purchase of the north half of the sixty-three acres. The county is asked to buy the south thirty-one acres for $37,000.

The various reasons why the Santa Ana site was selected were outlined. It was pointed out that the highway site north of the county hospital would cost $130,000. The necessity of having the fair close to a large population was declared to have been an important factor in the decision. The fair directors were afraid the fair could not pay its way unless it were located where a large attendance could be assured.

entrance. "The danger attached to this method, however, is very great, due to the inflammability of the carbon bisulphide, and should not be undertaken by those who have had no experience in handling this material. There is grave danger of igniting the container in which the operator carries the carbon bisulphide."

"Recently a new method has been developed by a large cyanide concern. This is still in the experimental stage, however, and is only recommended for trial. Calcium cyanide is applied with an applicator or blower which forces the material through the runway. Various other fumigants have been used with fair success but the one generally recommended by the government is the carbon bisulphide method."

Time to Act.

"When we consider that there are fewer burrows now to treat than there will be in the spring and that destruction of one now may be equal to the destruction of a large colony after the spring increase, no argument is needed to convince one that now is the time to kill this pest."

"The gopher gets in his work many times, before his presence is detected. A great many fine young and old trees are destroyed by this rodent. There are two general methods used on a commercial scale for the control of this pest, that of trapping and the use of poison bait. The trap, of course, is the sure but rather laborious way of controlling gophers. Where the infestation is heavy they can be more cheaply thinned out or destroyed by the poison method."

"The baits can be placed by the use of a gopher probe. The new mounds thrown up by them since the rain helps to determine just where they are working and by probing around these mounds, their regular runways can be found and a poison bait can be placed in them where the gopher will be sure to find it."

"The best known bait is sweet potatoes or carrots. These should be cut in cubes one inch long and one half inch square, washed and drained, and sprinkled with 1-8 ounce of strychnine alkaloid and 1-8 ounce of saccharin. This amount will poison four quarts of vegetable bait."

FORGETTING TO PRAY CALLED U. S. PERIL

Sounding a tocsin call of alarm lest America as a nation should forget to pray, the Rev. J. S. Skevington of the First Baptist church of Hollywood, last night delivered here the second sermon of the union week of prayer.

Services were held at the First Presbyterian church and the Rev. Mr. Skevington was introduced by the Rev. Otto S. Russel after a short song and prayer service led by the Rev. Will A. Betts, the Rev. William Everett Roberts and James A. Hughes.

"Truly I am concerned for the welfare of the national soul," declared the speaker, who chose for his text a verse from the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy, "But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth that he may establish his covenant which he swore unto thy fathers."

Tells Nations' Fall
Going back into the history of nations of the past whose names, he declared, "were chiseled in national tombstones," the speaker pointed out how their decline and fall followed logically upon a forgetting and ignoring of God.

"As a nation we are in danger of allowing our prosperity to blind us to the author of that prosperity. We feel that we are accomplishing great things by our own unaided efforts, yet where there is no vision of God, the people perish."

The great democratic government which was the dream of our forefathers, is yet in the making, and it will remain an unrealized dream without the power of God. As a nation we stamp our coins 'In God We Trust' but our souls are stamped with the fact that it is in gold we trust.

Millions For Schools
"We spend millions of dollars on our schools and pride ourselves upon teaching our boys and girls to make a living, but are we teaching them to live? Are we teaching them to be conscious of God? Not the God of hazy paths of the future, but the God in our lives now?"

"Human history is little more than a human attempt to live together in peace and good will. How sorry are our attempts. It would be impossible without God. Any attempt to live without remembering God, is national suicide."

And repeating in a dramatic manner Kipling's Recessional, the speaker brought his appeal to a close amid utter silence, and the Rev. Mr. Roberts pronounced the benediction.

Services Continue
Services will continue until Saturday, with the Rev. Raymond C. Brooks of Pomona college to speak tonight at the First Methodist church; the Rev. A. W. Brayden, dean of the School of Christianity, Los Angeles, speaking tomorrow night at the First Baptist church, and the Rev. T. A. Ray of the Methodist church, South, Pomona, to conclude the series Friday night at the Christian church. Services begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

In the Orange County Debating league Santa Ana will meet Orange at Orange and Anaheim at Santa Ana, on March 2, discussing the question: "Resolved, that the United States should Recognize the Present Government of Mexico." Tryouts are being held this week to determine the team for this debate.

POLY, ORANGE GIRLS TO PLAY TOMORROW

Victory Will Place Local Team In Line for Title Fracas With Anaheim

Pitted against the strong Orange team, the Santa Ana high school girls' basketball team will swing into action tomorrow afternoon in its last drive for the championship of the county league. A victory for the local organization will put it in second place and in direct line for a championship match with Anaheim high, now leading the chase without a single defeat. The Orange-Santa Ana tilt will be played at Orange.

Miss Nellie Wilson's Santa Ana aggregation has won two of its league encounters. Huntington Beach was rebuffed by the score of 22 to 4 and the locals vanquished Tustin in a hard fought struggle 11 to 7. Fullerton won from Santa Ana, 10 to 7.

Orange ran up a 37 to 5 victory on Garden Grove but fell by the wayside against the championship Anaheim outfit 15 to 13 in one of the most bitterly contested melees of the present season. Anaheim annexed the Southern California championship last year and has virtually its same team in the fold this year. Local fans figure Orange must have an exceptionally strong squad to hold the Mother Colony six to such a score.

Miss Wilson has announced that she will select her starting lineup against Orange from the following players: Forwards, Josephine Crookshank and Frances Cocroft; centers, Ruth Finley, Mable Cook and Annie Tarver; guards, Axia Goodykoontz, Thelma Patton and Sallie Cochran.

POLY GIRL TENNIS SHARKS BEGIN WORK FOR SEASON'S PLAY

Summer weather has had the effect of spurring on the candidates for the Santa Ana high school girls' tennis team and Miss Isabel Anderson, coach, has had the opportunity in the past few days to survey the material with which she will have to work.

Miss Josephine Crookshank, manager, has begun the task of arranging the early spring tournaments which will have much to do with determining who will represent Poly in this branch of athletics.

Among the players expected to offer strong bids for monograms this season are Enid Twist, Josephine Crookshank, Frances Cocroft and Vada Freburg.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

BY EDDIE WEST

Will Santa Ana and Orange county athletic fans support the Southern California Interscholastic track and field meet if that classic is held here April 28?

That is the question Principal D. K. Hammond, Coaches Ray Adkinson and "Spud" Morrison and other officials of the local high school must decide within the next few weeks.

Santa Ana has the chance of staging the annual meet—the largest high school athletic event of the spring. The affair will attract 200 or more stellar runners, jumpers and weight men. It will draw columns of comment in Los Angeles and other newspapers. But will it draw a large crowd?

The local officials don't want to fall down on the job. If they accept the offer of Seth Van Patten and the other Southern California athletic barons they want to make the meet a paying proposition. Hence the hesitancy.

If the representatives of the Orange league at their next meeting here report that they believe other cities in this section will send delegations to attend the classic then Poly field will be the scene of the biggest high school track meet of the season.

TAKES OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF CARD GRID DISASTER

George Baker, the husky Santa Ana boy who played with the Stanford Varsity this past season, isn't of the opinion that football chances are altogether ruined by the pruning of something like ten football stars a few days ago at the Cardinal institution.

Baker, who returned to his studies at Stanford the other day after spending a delayed holiday vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Baker, figures that the Cards will be right in the running next year even if the faculty axe did fall heavily enough to spread oodles of gloom around the Northern campus. "The only man Stanford will miss greatly," Baker opined, "is 'Chuck' Johnson, the 210-pound tackle. The rest of the men who fell by the wayside were all valuable players, of course, but there will be others, nearly as capable, ready to step in to the breach."

"The disaster to the grid men simply shows that Stanford intends to live up to its aim not to allow athletics to stand ahead of scholarship."

TWO ANAHEIM PLAYERS GET AIR WITH OTHERS

Among the five freshmen stars who were given the air when the quarterly reports were sent around were Bill Cook and Al Claves, both former Anaheim high school boys. Cook and Claves played part of the time at halfback positions with the Cardinal freshmen team.

Baker declared it is a tough task for any football player to stay up in his studies during the season when the difficult scholastic requirements are so strictly enforced. "After a fellow has worked on the football field from three o'clock until well after dark, partaken of supper, usually cold, at about eight o'clock and knows that he must live up to the coaches' regulations and be in bed by 10:30 o'clock, he isn't in the mood to put in the interval with analytics, political science or some other deep stuff," Baker declared.

HARBOR LEAGUE TITLE FIGHT ATTRACTS INTEREST

The battle for the championship of the Orange County Harbor league is reaching the place where almost anything may happen. Irvine and El Modena, with but one defeat each, are fighting neck and neck for the lead. The Bean Growers have the edge by a few points at present, because they have won more fracas than the Orange Pickers.

Here is the league standing to date: With about seven more games remaining on the schedule, virtually all of the clubs in the circuit have a chance to slip through and capture the gonfalon.

The Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, will tackle the league leading Irvinites here next Sunday. Interest in the game will be added by reason of the fact that Neal Raney and "Dutch" Heinrichs, teammates on the University of Southern California baseball team, will oppose each other on the mound. Raney, hurling for the Legion, blanketed Garden Grove last Sunday. Heinrichs has allowed only two runs in his last thirty-two innings.

El Modena will face Garden Grove at Garden Grove. The Van Dien-Young company club of Santa Ana will play Charlie Way's Newport crew at the beach city grounds. El Toro will mingle with the Tustin K. P.'s at Tustin.

SCHAEFER NABS LEAD IN BALKLINE MATCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Jake Schaefer held a commanding lead over Roger Conti, French billiard champion, today, in their match here to determine who will meet Willie Hoppe for the world's title. Schaefer with an unfinished run of 160, went out in the second block of three block match with a lead of 1,000 to 650. Schaefer last night ticked off his 500 points while Conti was struggling to mark up 313.

BUSINESS GIRLS IN BASKETBALL GAMES

Local Club Shows Class In Two Tilts; High School Upsets Collegians

Members of the new Santa Ana Business Girls' club were greatly encouraged today as to the success of their organization following two basketball games which they played with the local high school and the Junior college teams. Although the business girls' suffered defeat in both contests they showed plenty of aptitude for the game and with more experience are expected to develop a strong squad. A total of four games were played during the evening, which local fans believed was a record for this city.

Trim Junior College In the first engagement the high school team defeated the junior college girls 23 to 9. The high school lined up as follows: Forwards, Josephine Crookshank and Frances Cocroft; centers, Ruth Finley, Mable Cook and Annie Tarver; guards, Thelma Patton, Sallie Cochran and Axia Goodykoontz.

The college lineup was: Forwards, Wilma Plavan and Persana Deimling; centers, Regina Devault and Mable Harvey; guards, Helen Wilkins and Hazel Kinsel.

The high school aggregation annexed its fray with the business girls by the score of 16 to 4. The business girls lined up as follows: Miss Pearson and Rose Marie Smith, forwards; Dora Wood and Ruby Cameron, guards; Mable Foote and Josephine Lykkee, centers.

Business Girls Defeated The college aggregation defeated the business girls 14 to 4, the latter team playing as follows in this tilt: Margaret Galbraith and Lillian Lykkee, forwards; Edith Scanlon and Gertrude Whitney, guards; Nora Wood, center.

Miss Nellie Wilson, who is directing the work of the business girls as well as the high school and college teams, expressed herself as pleased with the playing of all of the teams.

BASEBALL WAR THREATENED AS MINORS OPENLY DEFY MAJORS ON DRAFT RIGHT

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Showing a lot of fight for one time little fellows, the minor baseball leagues rose up today and openly defied the big fellows of the majors. It's all about some more of that old draft snarling.

The minor leagues want to sell their players on the open market and the generous major league club owners want to get them for next to nothing.

The minors say they won't do it and the majors say they will. There it stands.

The latest move of the majors, which the little fellows claim is a direct violation of agreement, was to decide that no players would be sent to the smaller leagues unless they could be brought back to the big time at the draft price. The Pacific Coast league, the American Association and the International league, the ranking leaders of the forces opposed to the draft, took an emphatic stand today and declared they will have nothing to do whatever with the big fellows.

Thomas Hickey, president of the American Association, said no club in his circuit would be permitted to take players from the big leagues.

John Conway Toole, head of the International league, took the stand that the only way the majors could send players to his league would be under the optional agreement plan.

While he is trying to restrain himself, William M. McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast league, has let it be known that his organization is prepared to go it alone rather than bow to the will of the big leagues.

MEXICO, MATLOCK DRAW AT VERNON

Tom Kelly, Tommy McFarland's middleweight "find," didn't show at Vernon last night for his semi-windup fray with Kid Mexico, the pride of the Huntington Beach boxing fans.

Wad Wadhams substituted Leo Matlock, the Oakland slugger who is as well known here as Kelly and Mexico, for the battle. The judges called it a draw but many of the bugs figured Matlock should have had the decision. It was a rough, slugging encounter with both men well used up at the end.

BOWLING CHAMP WINS BIG LEAD IN MATCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Jimmy Blouin, world's bowling champion, outclassed Joe Falcato of New York in the second block of their forty game match here last night. Blouin averaging 240 2-10, spilled the pins for a total of 2,402, while Falcato was counting 1,902. The score of the match now stands Blouin 4,510, Falcato 4,067.

MEYERS WHIPS MORRISSEY BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 10.—Spud Myers, Pocastello, won the popular decision over Lee Morrissey, of Idaho Falls in 12 rounds.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

NO. 7: MOST UNUSUAL DEBUT I EVER SAW

The debut of any recruit pitcher in the majors is the big event of his baseball career. I have seen a number of recruits come and go. Often the debut of certain recruit pitchers marks their finish. Some meet with remarkable success, others have only ordinary luck, and for a great many it is a calamity.

The most unusual debut I ever saw a recruit pitcher make in the majors, was by Ray Keating, who for a number of years was a valuable member of the New York Yankees' pitching staff.

Keating was a spit-ball pitcher, and he had a varied assortment of moist deceivers. The umpire who called balls and strikes with Keating doing the pitching always had a busy day.

The first time I ever saw Keating was in a game at St. Louis. The Browns were leading by a lopsided score. A Yankee pinch hitter was sent in to bat in the eighth inning for the pitcher, and Keating was delegated to work the last half of the inning.

Gossip had been going the rounds that Keating had a choice lot of foolers, but lacked control. Before the inning was over I was positive that gossip was correct for once.

Keating walked the first man to face him, the count being three balls and two strikes when the final pitch went wild. The next batter struck out, once again the count being three and two, when the batsman offered at the next pitch and missed.

To make a long story short, Keating walked the first, third and fifth batsman to face him. He struck out the second, fourth and sixth hitter to step into the batter's box. In each case the final count was three balls and two strikes.

Some debut—fiction couldn't have figured out a more unusual one.

TOMORROW: The greatest world series pitching I ever saw.

EXPECT MASONS HERE TO HAIL COMPOSER

Members of the Santa Ana and of the Silver Cord Masonic lodges of this city, it was expected to-day, will turn out en masse to-night to welcome Charles Wakefield Cadman, famous composer and enthusiastically loyal Mason who is especially noted for his beautiful Indian compositions.

In commenting upon his Masonic affiliations, Cadman recently related an interesting occurrence of his Eastern tour when he went to historic Fredericksburg, Va. There in a spot redolent of Colonial days and all that makes the early history of the nation thrilling, Cadman visited the Masonic lodge room in which George Washington was raised to the degree of Master Mason, November 4, 1752.

In commenting upon the thrills which accompanied the experience, the eminent composer said: "I had the honor, given to few (tourists never see it) of seeing and holding in my own hands the Bible upon which Washington took his obligation—also the records of the secretary, brown with age yet still readable. Articles in Vaults

"These articles are kept in the First National bank vaults by the master of the lodge, Mr. Stearns, and I was allowed to have the priceless relics for some time. No words can tell the thrill it gave me.

"The Bible was printed in 1680, the type very clear and the book in an excellent state of preservation. The secretary's records were fascinating and I was much interested to read 'Due from George Washington, the sum of 1 pound, 3 shillings'."

Such are some of the experiences which come to this master musician, for, wherever he appears, he is greeted by friends won by his compositions. Who does not know and love "The Land of the Sky Blue Water"? And what bride would feel that she was properly conforming to all the laws that govern weddings were "At Dawning" not incorporated in the program of wedding music?

Charles Wakefield Cadman is a composer of whom America is proud, since his compositions are of America, by an American, for America.

Interpreting all the beauty of his music, is the Princess Tsianina, lovely Cherokee maiden who sings the airs of her race with all the fire and rhythm that one associates with a story-book princess.

Wins New Laurels
Beautiful, gracious and possessing a remarkable voice, the Princess is constantly adding new laurels to the wreath with which she was crowned upon her first year of concertizing.

The Cadman-Tsianina number is expected to prove one of the most popular on the winter's course of the Santa Ana Musical association, and the opening number of the program tonight at the high school auditorium at 8:30 o'clock will be awaited with considerable expectancy by what is anticipated will be one of the largest crowds of the season.

Following the musical association offering will be the appearance tomorrow noon at 2:30 p. m. and again at 8:30 p. m. of the Irish Regimental band, an aggregation of musicians from the only Irish regiment in Canada, the 110th. While the much-heralded bandmen come to this city under the auspices of the musical association, they are not a number of the regular concert course. Their appearance is designated to raise funds for the state music federation convention to be held here in April.

MUSIC TO FEATURE
S. B. ORANGE SHOW
SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 9.—Lovers of music, from the pulse quickening quiver of jazz to the more classical strains of grand opera, have a feast being prepared for them by the musical wizards who will play at the National Orange show in San Bernardino. Tuneful airs, creations of the world's greatest music masters, and voices from basso and contralto to high pitch tenors will reign on the program.

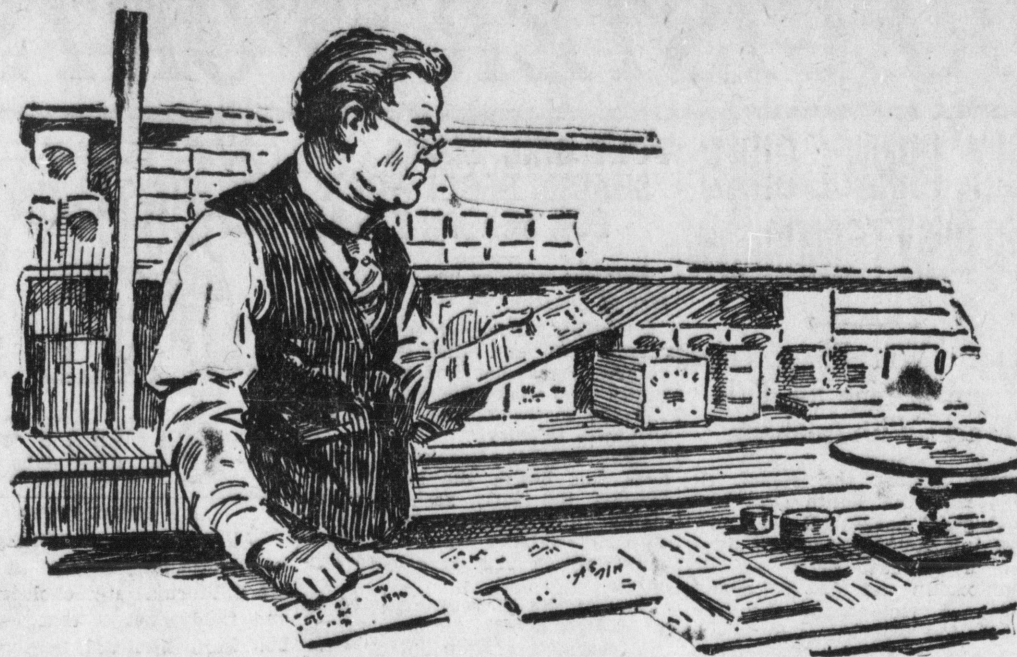

Tommasino! To the fan of hitting melody; to the lover of grand outbursts from brass instruments; to the devotee of arias of operatics, the name of the Latin bandmaster means much. And from the opening day of the exposition, February 16, to the grand finale February 26, Tommasino's band of Santa Monica and Ocean Park will play for the visitors. All of his famous forty musicians will be there.

Then, too, there will be a jazz orchestra as an added attraction to the band and operatic soloists. The jazz artists will also have soloists, but instead of classical numbers will furnish new thrills in vocal jazztime. All this was promised yesterday in an announcement from R. H. Mack, exposition manager.

Manager Mack asserts several other big entertainment features are being planned for the big show, and says that despite the banning of games of chance there will be odds of fun for those seeking a chance to frolic.

UNIONS TO MERGE

Some merchants could not answer the questions on the Income Tax blanks

A GREAT many storekeepers said that the Income Tax form called for information which they did not have, and could not get.

They said it took them weeks, working day and night, to arrive at a makeshift report which was not satisfactory to themselves or to any one else.

But the figures which were hardest to get were merely the records of store transactions. Every merchant should have these records at his finger ends every day.

There is a hard way—and an easy way—for a merchant to secure a record of his store transactions:

- ① The hard, slow, inaccurate way is through day books, pass books, ledgers, sales-slips, memorandums, memory, and guess work.
- ② The quick, easy, accurate way is through a modern National Cash Register.

A phone call or post card will bring full information about how an N. C. R. System will take the drudgery out of keeping your store records.

EVENING SALUTATION

It avails us nothing unduly to bemoan our errors or losses. For happen what may to the man of simple faith, still, when the last minute comes of the sorrowful hour, when the week or the year is ended, still will he find some cause for gladness as he turns his eyes within.

OLD AGE AND TRAVEL

Many people think it odd that Albert Blair, a St. Louis lawyer, marrying a second time at the age of 82, should choose for a wedding tour a two-year trip around the world. The bride herself is well along in years.

It is one of the most natural things in the world. Youth is usually considered the time for travel, and there is much to be said for that. Youth is adventurous and energetic. But youth is also ignorant and blind to most of what it sees in a strange environment. Are not the best "wanderjahre" those of age?

The elderly traveler is likely to possess knowledge and experience illuminating everything he sees. Knowing more of history and literature and human nature, he has better judgment and deeper understanding of other cities and lands and alien types of civilization. His senses may be duller, but the nearness of the end gives a glamor of its own to the beautiful and interesting things he sees. He is more likely to have, also, two practical advantages that youth commonly lacks—more leisure and more money.

According to the old Greek legend, Ulysses, greatest of travelers, wearied of peaceful life and comfort and set out again, in his old age, to sail into unknown regions. That romantic example will be followed by the old folk of modern generations in ever increasing numbers, as a world incomparably bigger than Ulysses' Mediterranean world is laid open to them with easy and convenient means of access.

The President's plea to congress not to embarrass him by unnecessary resolutions about foreign affairs was timely, and is being heeded. It is hoped also that restrictive legislation which now hampers the adjustment of our foreign debt will be repealed.

REGULATING RADIO

There is coming to be a chaos of radio communication, says Secretary Hoover. Jazz bands, sermons, crop reports, sporting services and other communications of all kinds are all fighting for the ether and trying to monopolize the same wave-lengths. There are 569 broadcasting stations in operation and 21,000 radio transmitting stations altogether, with more being established every day.

Secretary Hoover was given control of the situation a few months ago, but has not been able to bring enough order into the chaos because his powers are informal and the game is developing so rapidly. The Kellogg-White bill, now pending in congress, aims to give the department of commerce explicit power to supervise all radio communication, assigning wave-lengths, approving apparatus, licensing operators, etc.

This looks like a timely effort. Radio is becoming too big and important to be allowed to drift along unregulated. Properly handled, it should be a great power for enlightenment and entertainment. Ignored, it would end in Bedlam.

Anyone who has endeavored to tune out either one or both of the Los Angeles morning newspaper stations recently knows the difficulty encountered, and will welcome any effort at regulation. Unless there is regulation, and that soon, listening-in will lose its popularity.

COLLEGE PEDESTRIANS

It has been estimated that the average college girl walks about 60 miles a week, or better than 2000 miles a year, as she crosses the campus from class to class. At this rate, by the time she has completed the ordinary four-year course the young woman should be entitled to a high place among the world's famous pedestrians.

There is no doubt that this mingling of physical and mental exercise is a good thing for the girl. Very likely it helps to explain why so many comparatively frail young women complete their college courses in better condition than when they began, in spite of long hours of study and intense concentration. It is to the advantage of the student that so much of this daily walking is done out of doors. It also is an illuminating comment on how effectively work can be interspersed with frequent periods of relaxation.

Not everybody can divide his time as advantageously as does the lucky student. But the more frequently every worker fills his lungs with good fresh air and intersperses sedentary jobs with active ones, the better he will do his work. The greater also his chances of retaining the health and zest of the college pedestrian.

THE REDWOOD'S MAGIC

When Joseph Hergesheimer, investigating lumbering operations in the West for the Saturday Evening Post, approached the redwood district, he believed that lumbering was a necessary and proper business, and that it was rather unfair of those afar off to complain about matters they knew naught of. He had a prejudice against the cry "Save the Redwoods!" raised by individuals "against whom that saving, however imperative, might not be charged."

But when he actually got into the district, he found that everyone connected with the labor felt regret about the passing of the great trees. "I lost, for the moment, my interest in economic lumbering, in utilization and variety of manufacture; I forgot who legally, rightfully, owned that stand, any stand, of coast redwood trees." A sensation of fear took possession of him at the idea of their loss.

"It was then that I remembered how rich, as a nation, we were, the only rich country left after the late disasters of modern civilization. Yet we hadn't enough gold, with all our gold—we hadn't the integrity, with all our show of public faith—to keep three or four or five hundred thousand acres of a natural magnificence needed more for the integrity of our fibre, the sheer future survival of spirit, than for surpluses of employment, of temporary gangs, crews, of labor and invested securities."

After fighting his sentiment with logic, after listening to all the arguments in favor of cutting the redwoods, many of them good arguments, he concludes, at last:

"Second growth everywhere would, eventually, replace the first; but nothing could bring back the serenity the forest had accumulated after a hundred million years. Standing in a grove I thought of the bitter and vain resentment that the future—when it had learned that a commerce was not enough to keep the heart alive—would hold against the past, our present. The grace of the towering trees masked their gigantic span; the ground, in perpetual shadow, held only flowering oxalis and emerald ferns. It was raining very softly. The fallen trunks of an utter remoteness, too great to see over, were green with moss. The whisper of the wind was barely audible, far off, reflective; the gloom in the trees was clear, wet and mild. It was the past. And this was the redwoods' secret, their special magic, that they absorbed, blotted out, the fever of time, the wasted years, the sickness of mind, in which men spent the loneliness of their lives."

Dare we, as a nation, let ourselves lose that magic?

THE LENGTH of LIFE

When will you die? The average length of life in our country now is 56. This is three and a half years more than in 1910 and 15 years more than in 1870.

The figures are supplied by Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University. He says the average life could be prolonged 20 years if all people could learn and profit by what health experts know. Health education has a lot to do with it. In ignorant India the average man is destined to die at 24. Longest lived people in the world are the progressive New Zealanders. They live 60 years on the average.

Shows Right Sort of Spirit

San Francisco Chronicle
General Alexander Ivanoff, former commander of the armies of the Russian Czar, has come to America with the avowed intention of working, earning a living and learning English. His wife, who is in Shanghai, will follow her husband to the United States just as soon as he can earn money sufficient to pay her passage. General Ivanoff came as a stowaway passenger. His most cherished possession apparently was an English-Russian dictionary.

That is the sort of a man who will make a success in this country. It is a safe bet that within a few years at most Ivanoff will know more about the English language than many of his American neighbors. He is strong and healthy, he is not afraid to work. He is ambitious and wants to learn. He has shown that he is adaptable and will get on. America welcomes immigrants who come with that sort of a spirit.

A Business Transaction

San Diego Union
It is our prediction that the British debt to America will be paid to the uttermost farthing. We do not believe that Great Britain, in the coming conference, will ask for any concession even hinting of a desire to avoid fulfillment of a just obligation.

The argument in some quarters that the attitude of Great Britain toward the spirit of the Washington conference is a proceeding which to base an inference as to that nation's action in the present conversation upon a great financial and economic problem, is entirely unwarranted. In strict diplomacy affecting the national integrity of the British empire it is always likely that British statesmanship will seek every advantage, even to the extremity of evasion of a treaty obligation; but in matters of monetary obligation the ethics of business honor will prevail. The British debt will be paid. The only question at issue in the settlement will be the terms upon which the payment shall be made. The Englishman is not a miser. He prides himself on his sportsmanship. The American is not a Shylock. He prides himself on his generosity.

The safety of Great Britain was involved in the disarmament proposition. The honor of Great Britain is involved in this debt settlement. Britons and Americans can be gentlemen together even upon a business basis. It is even possible that out of this conference will come a practical plan for salvaging Europe from its economic chaos.

"Lost In the Cinches"

Imperial Valley Press
The Des Moines News prints an interesting editorial on "100,000,000 Lost In Cinches." This is the amount sunk in Iowa in a single year in oil stocks.

The figures were gleaned from a bulletin of the Iowa Geological Survey. The bulletin points out that the chances of finding oil in paying quantities in Iowa are very slim and limited to one section of the state. Those who are approached to purchase oil securities are warned that the only safe rule is to invest in going concerns which are actually on a paying basis and can prove it.

Iowa is not the only state where figures just as amazing can be compiled on the credulity of poor human nature and the readiness of certain forces to play upon it. Nor is oil the only product.

Big Men Self Made

Long Beach Press
This is the land and age of self-made men. In truth, from the days when the Jamestown Colony was planted in Virginia and the Plymouth Colony in New England, this has been a land of self-made men. From abject poverty and from the humblest positions men have risen to greatness and grandeur of achievements in all generations of American history.

In the news of today appear the names of two men essentially self-made who are placed in highly important positions. Dr. W. W. Campbell, famous director of the Lick Observatory and just elected farm boy and has made his own way to the top in educational and scientific achievements.

F. Edson White, who succeeds J. Ogden Armour as president of Armour & Company, one of the biggest meat-packing concerns in the world, began his career on the cattle-killing floor of a packing plant.

Here are two concrete illustrations—one in the realm of education—the other in the realm of business—where merit has won against all obstacles, and two men with courage and talent have risen to positions of great power, importance and influence. This is typical of democratic America, the land of opportunity.

Senator Rominger's suggestion that there should be two states of Northern and Southern California, is not wise on the eve of the legislative session. It is based on an alleged inharmoniousness between the north and the south. There is no necessity for such inharmoniousness to exist and there is no apparent reason why this wonderful state should be cut in two.—Riverside Enterprise.

The receipts of the big football game at Pasadena were approximately $150,000. Of this sum, $30,000 is profit and will go to the stadium fund. Now if Pasadena will spend a small part of that thirty thousand in building more and better athletic stadiums, she will do a good thing. Redlands people who attended the game reported the difficulties of getting into the stadium and out of it and on the road home, too great to be undertaken more than once in a century. If Pasadena expects to keep the big East-West football game, she will have to take care of it in better shape than she did this year.—Redlands Facts.

Those Who Eat Must Work

Work More and Talk Less

"To work more and talk less," said Luther Burbank, naturalist, when he was asked to say what should be America's and Americans' foremost resolution for 1923.

"To work more and talk less," said he. "To have more faith in ourselves and less in what the other fellow has to say. To think ourselves and not let our thoughts be only a readjustment of old prejudices. To look for light and knowledge wherever found without regard to their sources. If a race has not acquired and stored among its hereditary tendencies sufficient perseverance and adaptability to meet all the changes to which it must always be subjected by its ever-changing environment, it will be left behind and finally destroyed, outstripped by races better equipped for the fray."

"Stop the pursuit of selfish interest and profits, and go to work for the works' sake and the welfare of humanity," was the resolution suggested by Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States Weather Bureau.

"To work hard and keep well," was the reply of Walter Camp, foremost athletic authority in America.

Worth While Verse

THE SPHINX

In silent grandeur by the Nile,
For age on age the watch you've kept
And empires rose and waxed the while,
And then in History's folds have crept.

The creeping centuries that saw
The birth of Greece, and Rome's decay,
Were but as beads you counted, slow,
And solemn, at the close of day.

You saw the cedars tall that grew
On Leb-non's slopes, and there were felled;
And Moses marvelled what you knew,
The while in Pharaoh's land he dwelled.

You saw the son of Joseph named,
And Mary's eyes with weeping wet;
You saw a shudd'ring world when flamed
The scimiter of Mahomet!

I will not ask you, then, to tell
The story of your vigil long;
The secret that you guard so well
Shall never burden earthly song.

But when Life's fires have ceased to glow,
In Virgil's shade I chance to meet;
Or Dante's spirit, whispering low,
Shall lead me to Osiris' seat,
Perchance I'll keep the watch awhile,
With you beside the River Nile.

Little Benny's

Note Book

By Lee Pope

Ma was going to take me down town shopping with her last Saturday morning and then we were going to meet pop and eat lunch with him, pop saying, Now for the love of Peet don't forget 12 o'clock means 12 o'clock, and don't forget I expect to meet you by standard time and not by that bewtful but temperamental gold watch of yours. We'll be on time, never fear, ma sed, and pop sed, Well, you never have bin yet and neither has Benny, so I shudder to think wat you'll both be together.

We'll be erly, set your mind at rest, ma sed, and pop sed, Set your watch rite, that more to the point. O well, miracles are happening every day so I'll expect to see you promptly at noon in front of the restaurant.

And he went down to the office and I went down town with ma and she wawked around different stores looking a lot but not buying much, and all of a sudden I noticed a round thing with a hand on it to show wat floor the elevator was on, and I got a idee, saying, G, ma, look at that, that clock says 12 o'clock, and ma sed, Wat? Ware? Nonsents, wat clock. O my goodness so it does, O deer my watch must be rong enen, your father will never get over this, O shaw.

And she grabbed a hold of my hand and started to wawk out of the store so fast I had to run to wawk that fast and I bumped into different people and they looked at me mad espeshilly if I tred on their feet or kicked them in the ankle, and I sed, No it didn't, ma, no it didn't, and ma sed, Wat are you talking about, hurry up, don't make me drag you like this.

Wich I wasnt making her on account of her doing it without me making her, and jest then I bumped into some mans neez and he sed, Watch ware youre going, will you? Wich I was watching but wat good did that do me, and jest then ma saw a reel clock saying 10 minuits to 11, and she asked a lady selling stockings if that clock was rite and the lady sed it was ma and ma sed, Then that other clock must be bin crazy, O Im so glad, I can do some more shopping. Wich she did till my legs felt the fearrest they ever felt, and by the time we got to the restaurant it was half past 12 and pop was wawking up and down with a ferease kpression and it got worse insted of better wen ma told him all the clocks in the store was diffrent.

Alaska Sunflowers

Sunflowers, which the federal experiment station at Matanuska, Alaska, has been trying out as a possible forage crop for that region, are reported as having made a much better growth last year than formerly. Mammoth Russian seed was planted May 24. About one-fourth of the plants started to head and a number of these developed full blossoms before frost. Some stalks grew to a height of eight feet and were two inches in diameter. The station considers that if this variety can be made to approximate this year every season it will prove a valuable crop for silage.—Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

STOP that TAX LEAK
Know Your Rights and Save Money
By D. Moore

ARTICLE I.—OBEDIENCE TO THE LAW MEANS ONLY JUST TAXES

The Government—National and State—expects every citizen to bear his just proportion of taxes. It does not expect any citizen to pay more or less than his just proportion.

Thousands are paying more than their just share!

Other thousands are paying less than they should pay!

Overpayment is due largely to ignorance of the rights and obligations of the average taxpayer under the law. He is unjustly and illegally taxing himself, and can and should save the money.

Underpayment is due largely to studied evasion and technical skill in the manipulation of accounts, as well as to downright dishonesty, fraud and connivance.

The man who is profiting by this evasion is doing so at the expense of those who unwisely overpay.

The purpose of these articles is to inform and instruct all taxpayers as to their rights and obligations under the law, and to point out the provisions expressly written into the law to equalize the burden of taxation.

Saving On Capital Gains

How many taxpayers, for example, know that the present income tax law contains an innovation by which many large taxpayers (other than corporations) may calculate the tax on the capital gains, on property held for more than two years, and then sold, separate from ordinary income, at 12½ per cent? This is a relief provision to encourage transactions long held in abeyance on account of the high surtaxes. A simple example will make it clear:

In 1922 "A" has an income of $20,000 for salary. During the year he sells land, bought in 1919, for a price which gives him a net gain of $20,000. This is called capital gain. Under previous laws he would have no option and would report his total net income as $40,000, and pay, if he is a married man, $5,540.50.

Now, if he has studied the present law, or received competent advice, he will calculate his tax—first, upon the $20,000 salary, which amounts to $1,720, and then calculate a separate tax of 12½ per cent upon the $20,000 capital gain, which is $2,500, or a total tax of $4,220. However, where this method is elected the total tax must not be less than 12½ per cent of the net income.

In the above example, 12½ per cent of the total net income is $4,750, and the difference between this sum and the tax of $4,220, is $530, which would be the saving to the taxpayer. Under the method used in previous laws the saving would be $1,050!

By increasing the amounts in the above example to $50,000 salary and $150,000 capital gain, respectively, "A" is saving over the old method would be $59,250.

If you overpay your tax you will probably never know it; if you underpay you should not only hear from the government, but may be severely penalized for the error. It also pays to be careful.

Taxation Vital Problem

Taxation is the most important subject before our country today. It concerns ALL of the people, for all are taxed, either directly or indirectly. None can escape the steadily growing burden of national, state and local taxes. It is imperative, for the welfare of the nation, that each should bear his share.

Taxation is more than a subject of discussion. It is a problem which vitally affects the home and family as well as business, and must be studied and solved by the best minds of the land. Notwithstanding its bearing upon the prosperity of the country, it is the least understood of all our many vexing problems.

The average taxpayer citizen knows nothing about the theory of taxation, or how the laws are framed and the assessments laid. On the contrary, too many are utterly indifferent. It is all a puzzle—something too deep for ordinary intelligence—so he thinks, and leaves it to experts and lawyers. The average man is perfectly capable of handling his own tax problems.

This series of articles will make clear the way. The public needs "tax education." Until there is a common and better understanding of the whole subject, your taxes are going to cost you more than you need pay.

Adventures of the Twins

A Dreamland Poet

By Olive Roberts Barton

Dusty Coat, the fairy sandman, He sings no better than old gum-shoe. And he's always yelling out, 'Who, who, who!'

"Tea hee!" sniggered Mike Mole. "That's fine! When did you think of it?"

"I've always thought of it," declared Philip with a wave of his hand. "Only I couldn't say it because I was afraid he'd hear me. There are no owls in Dreamland and I can say what I please. Here's another about one of my enemies:

"'Old Cobby Cob Coon Is a perfect loon, I hope he'll very soon Fly to the moon!'"

"Wonderful!" declared Mike Mole. "You are a real genius, Philip. I s'pose you wouldn't dare to say that out loud anywhere else but here, either."

"Well, hardly!" said Philip cautiously. "Knowing that Cob Coon likes frog's legs as well as I like flies."
